The Islander, government organ semi-officially says the request will not be acceded to, and in regard to the treaty which is viewed with some favor, their export to the United States being fish and paper, the Islander says: The Island Government by the advice of the Government of Great Britain and Canada, has taken measures to have the provisions of the treaty put in operation at once without waiting for the formal approval of the Legislatures.

Senor Roberts also received authority to exercise the functions of third commissioner, or umpire, to which he has been elected. The Spanish Government, in a friendly note to Gen. Sickles, has declared that it is not unwilling to adhere to the neutrality laws as laid down in the treaty at Washington.

NEW YORK, July 25, 1871.

DISSATISFACTION.

The Hong Kong News Letter of June 12th has the following: The American residents in China have received with astonishment the announcemnnt that Minister Lowe, before departing for Corea, had appointed a foreigner as acting United States Consul for the port of Chefoo. So much dissatisfaction has been felt and expressed at Meadows, an Englishman holding the office of United States Vice-Consul at Tien-Tsin, that it was generally believed some steps would be taken to replace him by an American born, but instead of this another one has been added to the list, much to the surprise of every one possessing the least particle of national pride; and Americans see with the deepest feelings of humiliation their flag represented at the Capital of this country by foreigners—men who have no interest in the affairs of the country they are thus appointed to represent.

ROME AND THE POPE.

A special dispatch from London of the 24th inst., says the Pope may leave Rome any day. Preparations are being made for his reception at the Chateau at Corti, Corsica. Valey, the owner of the Chateau, has had an understanding with Antonelli, and is to place it at the disposal of the Pope. There is a movement going on in France to guarantee to the Pope a temporal sovereignty over Corsica. The Pope wishes to publish a syllabus in regard to the occupation of Rome by the Italian government, and declaring that the measures withholding from him all temporal powers are void. Measures have been taken already in Rome to prepare for the choice of the next Pope. It is proposed to choose one who may be moderate in his ideas and not unfriendly to Italy, and by this means effect a compromise with the Italian government. Cardinal Carnello DePietro is mentioned. The disposition as made by the French Chamber of Petitions in regard to the temporal power, is equivalent to laying them on the table.

THE VIADUCT RAILWAY.

President Hilton laid before the Executive Committee of the Viaduct Railway yesterday the views of the Engineers of the Board on various interesting matters connected with its successful operation when completed; they decided against extending the main trunk of the line to the Battery, but recommended the construction of a branch road to the South ferry, with a depot at Wall or Pine streets, provided down-town merchants are willing to subscribe the necessary capital. Surveys of the main stem are almost completed. The report removes all doubts of the possibility of building such a road along the selected route. The subscriptions have been liberal, and that of five million dollars by the city has been secured according to law. The estimated cost of the road is fifty millions of dollars. The gross annual income from the eastern branch is estimated at nine millions five hundred thousand dollars.

HEARD FROM.

The parents of Susan Ann Masterson whose disappearance and supposed abduction from her home in Williamsburg six years ago, she being then twelve years old, created great excitement, received this morning a letter from Baltimore from the girl herself saying she was almost heart-broke and begging her friends to come to her rescue. The letter was the first intelligence the parents had received of her fate, though she had previously written five letters. Communications are already had with the Baltimore police for the recovery of the girl.

DEAD.

Jno. Kellum, the well know architect, died this morning at Hempstead, Long Island, of pleurisy, contracted while on a yachting excursion a few days since. He leaves a fortune of a million dollars.

THE COMMERCIAL AGENCY CASE.

Judge Lindley of the Circuit Court, in the case of Millier vs. Bradstreet's Commercial Agency, decided to-day not to dissolve the injunction as asked by defendant, on the ground that the plaintiff has adequate remedy in a suit for damages, the defendant being insolvent and his principal a non-resident of State.

LITTLE ROCK.

The Indians.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., July 25—A gentleman arrived at Fort Smith on the 22d from the Indian country says the Osages are on the war path. On the 18th a party started on an expedition ostensibly for buffalo hunting, but returned in a couple of days after with three white scalps, and their horses loaden down with plunder, that they attacked some train and were successful in their raids. A big row resulting in the death of two Indians and one colored man took place a few days ago at Smith Paul a place two miles west of Fort Arbuckle. There was a camp meeting going on of colored people and Indians, when several bad characters made their appearance with whisky. A number of Indians and colored men getting drunk, a fight ensued with the above result.

GEORGIA.

Railroad Decision.

ATLANTA, July 25—The Supreme Court of Georgia to-day in the Macon & Western Railroad injunction case decided in favor of the lessees.

ST. LOUIS.

Daring Express Robbery.

ST. LOUIS, July 25—The Times this morning learns from the passengers by the Mobile & Ohio Railroad, that a daring express robbery occurred on that road in Hickman county, Kentucky, on Saturday night last. It appears that three men, who purchased tickets at Union City, Tennessee, for Clainton, Kentucky, got on the train. When the train halted at Moscow, two of the robbers got off and their confederate remained on the platform of the car. Observing no one but the messenger in the express car as the train moved out from the depot the two jumped into it and presented revolvers to the head of the messenger. They forced him to hand over the key of the safe, which one of them ransacked while the other stood guard over the expressman. After taking out all the money, supposed to be about $2,000, one of the thieves placed it and the key in his pocket. The robbers then pulled the cord, and when the train slackened up, jumped out and took to the woods, where they escaped under cover of darkness. The train backed down to Moscow, where a description of the robbers was sent by telegraph. The citizens of the place armed themselves, and to the number of twenty-five, turned out to hunt for them in the woods. But when the train renewed its course the thieves had not been secured. As they took the key of the safe with them, it could not be opened so as to ascertain the exact loss.

STREET ROBBERY.

A very bold street robbery was committed here just before noon to-day, under the following circumstances: One of the delivery wagons of the United States Express Company started out to deliver packages as usual. The safe was in charge of D. W. Sanders, messenger, and the wagon was driven by W. W. Kendall. One of the first packages the messenger undertook to deliver was one purporting to contain $70 and addressed to Mrs. Larkin, living in an alley between Fourth and Fifth streets, and between Franklin avenue and Morgan street. Arriving at the mouth of the alley the messenger halted and taking the package started up the alley. But a few moments elapsed before he discovered that no such person lived in the alley and returning to the street he was astonished at finding his wagon and safe gone. He then rushed to the office of the company and gave information of what had occurred. Not long after this policeman Buhl saw a wagon passing down Spruce street, near Fourth street, some fourteen squares from the place Sander left it, the driver of which was gagged. The officer arrested the driver, who stated that as soon as messenger Sander went into the alley two men jumped into the wagon. They first placed a wooden gag in his mouth and threw a quantity of pepper into his eyes. They then drove off with him, and after taking several packages from the safe, threw him backwards into the wagon and leaped out on Spruce street, between Twelfth and Thirteenth. Subsequently a man named John Hartzock and a boy named Charley Haley came to the police station and stated that while standing near an alley on Spruce street, between Thiteenth and Fourteenth streets they saw two men jump out of the Express wagon and run up the alley, one carrying several packages, the other having nothing. The driver was just resuming a sitting posture, when they looked into the wagon he said he had been robbed. One of them wanted to cut the string which bound the gag but the driver would not let him. They then ran to inform a policeman of what they had seen, and Kendall drove on until arrested by Officer Buhl, as above narrated. The total amount taken was $3,330, and $85,000 worth of railroad bonds, directed to the Kansas Pacific Railroad Company. The robbers left behind a number of small packages containing nearly a thousand dollars in gold. From information given by Hartzock and Haley, it is believed the robbers will be speedily arrested. The bogus package was put in the express office at St. Charles, Missouri, and countersigned John Larkin.

Further developments of the express robbery to-day lead to the suspicion that it was a put up job, and that Kendall the driver, and perhaps Sander the messenger, were concerned in it. Kendall's story is regarded as very weak. When he was taken to the police station his eyes showed no signs of having had pepper or snuff thrown in them. The gag in his mouth was so loosely adjusted he could have pushed it out with his tongue had he desired to do so. Besides this his hands were at no time bound and there was a pistol on the wagon seat beside him, which he did not attempt to use, nor did he make any demonstrations calculated to attract attention on the street while the safe was being rifled.

KILLED INSTANTLY.

At Merridos, Illinois, yesterday, William Edmundson, the son of an old resident of that place, dunned a Mr. Hockwith, of Brown county, for a small sum of money. Hockwith denied the debt, whereupon Edmundson struck him a tremendous blow on the neck with brass knucklers, breaking the spinal column and killing him instantly. An attempt was made to arrest Edmundson, but being armed he resisted successfully and made his escape. Hockwith leaves a family.

APPROVED.

The County Court has approved the action of County Collector Maguire in his attempt to collect the delinquent taxes of the Iron Mountain, Pacific and Western Missouri Railroads, and authorized him to employ counsel at the county's expense to defend any suit that may be brought against him or his bondsmen.

KILLED BY A TRAIN.

James Ash, a night watchman on the Missouri & Pacific Railroad at Franklin, was killed by a passing freight train last Saturday.

CHURCH TROUBLE.

Rev. Mr. Kellogg, who had the late controversy with Bishop McIlvaine, made an effort to call up the subject again in the church guild to-night, but signally failed. A motion to reconsider received only his own vote.

RAILROAD CHANGE.

It is reported that W. D. Griswold, late president of the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad, has been tendered a similar position in the Toledo, Wabash and Western Railroad. It is not improbable that lively times will be inaugurated in the railroad war between Cincinnati and St. Louis growing out of the recent through line put on the Vandalia route. The Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Layfayette Railroad, that has hitherto occupied an impartial portion with reference to the rival lines from Indianapolis to St. Louis, has assumed a position of unfriendliness to the Vandalia road, on account of the new relations the latter has entered into with the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton railroad.

TERRE HAUTE.

Killed on the Railroad.

TERRE HAUTE July 25.—Last night near Carbon, a freight train of the Indianapolis and St. Louis Railroad, ran over and killed a man named Joseph Murlock, who took the risk of trying to get over a piece of trustle work knowing that the train was near. Murlock's body was cut to pieces. He leaves a family in poor circumstances.

KU KLUX COMMITTEE.

An Important Decision.

THE WEATHER REPORT.

The Funded Loan.

AGRICULTURAL REPORT.

WASHINGTON, July 25, 1871.

THE FUNDED LOAN.

About eight hundred and fifty thousand dollars will be required to pay the quarterly interest on the funded loan due on August 1st. This money can not be sent direct to any money centres as heretofore, and the change made in the paying of interest direct to the bondholders, meets with favor in the West. That section of country has always complained that New York has had an excess of floating capital, owing to the Government disbursements being made there, and therefore the rates of exchange were fixed at a low rate in New York, while in the Western States it was at a high rate.

THE WEATHER.

The low barometer which was on Monday afternoon west of Mississippi, has moved north-east, and is now probably central north of Lake Superior. The pressure has fallen from the upper Mississippi to Lake Ontario. The area of high barometer has moved from Pennsylvania to Maine, and it is probable that the barometer is quite low off the coast and in the middle States. Threatening weather with light rains has been very generally reported from Missouri to the Gulf, and from Wisconsin to Lake Superior. Cloudy weather with north-easterly winds has continued on the Atlantic coast, and brisk winds with occasional rain prevail this afternoon from Cape Hatteras to Cape Cod. Partially clear and clearing weather is now reported from Lake Michigan to Carolina.

Probabilities.—The low pressure on Lake Superior will probably move eastward, and on Wednesday extend south eastward to Lake Ontario. Brisk easterly winds will probably prevail on the East Atlantic, and partially cloudy and clearing weather on the Atlantic coast. Southerly winds with rainy or threatening weather is probable from the Western Gulf to Ohio Valley, and clearing up weather in the north-west.

IMPORTANT DECISION.

The Secretary of the Treasury to-day made a decision, of which the following is the substance: A canal used for purposes of trade cannot be treated as navigable water of the United States even though it may extend beyond the limits of a single State and commence or terminate with the navigable waters of the United States. Canal boats, therefore, as long as they remain within the termini of a canal, are not subject to the navigation laws, and if found trading between district and district or between different places in the same district, they must be navigating natural navigable waters to be subject to the enrollment and license laws. Hence if they they leave a canal and enter into navigable waters of the United States for the purpose of trade and commerce, that moment they become liable to all provisions of the navigation laws and to the payment of an alien tonnage tax if without proper marine papers.

THE INDIANS.

The Republican learns from Jacksboro, Texas, that the report that the Indian chiefs, Santanta and Big Tree had been killed while attempting to escape is untrue. They were both tried at Jacksboro, and found guilty of murder in the first degree. Judge Seward, who presided at their trial thought their punishment ought to be commuted to imprisonment for life. Mr. Tatum, the Indian agent, was also using his influence to secure this result. General Sherman had ordered that they be held till a final order from the President should be received, and it is probable, therefore; that they will not be hung. Santanta takes his imprisonment very hard, and says the raid on the Wilson train is the first one he has ever been engaged in in Texas, and if the whites will release him, he will never make another.

THE INDIANS.

Reports received at the Indian Bureau state that the agent who was dispatched to Mexico in order to induce the return of the Kickapos says these Indians are near Santa Rosa in Coehila, and mentions as a singular fact that the Mexican commissioner had arrived at that place but one week in advance of our agent and his party, and had been issuing cattle and corn to the Kickapos. The object of our Government in desiring the return of the Indians and their location on the reservation is to break up their depredations on the Texas frontier, in which they are encouraged by their Mexican friends.

General Parker to-day vacated his office as Commissioner of Indian Affairs. The clerks of the Bureau took a formal leave of him.

AGRICULTURE.

Returns to the Department of Agriculture up to July 1st show the average of sugar cane greater this year than last in South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Louisiana, and Texas, the increase ranging from 5 to 15 per cent. while in Mississippi the average is 2 per cent. and in Missouri 25 per cent. less than last year. In the average of tobacco New York shows 42 per cent. increase over last year, Illinois 35, Pennsylvania 27, Wisconsin 30, Connecticut, 16, while Kentucky reports 13 per cent decrease, Virginia 50, Tennessee and the other Southern States do not vary much. The condition of the crops is generally below the average, except in Connecticut, Alabama and Texas.

KU-KLUX.

The testimony of the Hon. Thomas Hardiman, ex-member of Congress from Macon, Georgia, before the Ku-Klux Committee was very brief. He said he knew of no Ku Klux organization in his district, and had not heard of its existence there. Instead of colored persons being intimidated at the polls, colored persons had intimidated white persons and taken possession of the polls. There was no violation of law, except in one case. A number of negroes threatened to punish another negro for voting the Democratic ticket, but the row was suppressed.

SMUGGLING.

Cases of attempts to smuggle goods along the Canadian border are becoming very frequent, and the regulations are becoming more stringent, and are enforced more rigidly by the Treasury Department. The Secretary has recently refused, in a large number of cases, to grant the applications for the release of goods seized for attempts to evade duties, most of the instances being where the goods were discovered on the persons of the smugglers. Only the payment of the appraised value of the goods will hereafter effect their release.

TAX COLLECTING.

Secretary Boutwell, yesterday, transmitted to Commissioner Pleasonton the opinion of the Solicitor of the Treasury relative to the collection of the tax on coupons, said: "I accept the Solicitor's conclusions and have to request that you will communicate this decision to the officers of the Internal Revenue for their guidance, calling their special attention to the fact that it applies only to the interest on bonds paid previous to the decision of May 13th, 1871, and not to dividends upon stock."

FURLOUGHS.

The liberal system of granting furloughs, which heretofore prevailed in the Treasury Department, particularly among the heads of bureaus and other high officers, has been curtailed. The Secretary has issued a general order, stating that no more than thirty days' leave of absence in his department would be allowed in any fiscal year, under any circumstances whatever, and that no appeal from this decision will be considered.

INJUNCTION.

A temporary injunction having been granted by Judge Wylie, restraining the Board of Public Works from using the appropriation made by the Legislative Assembly for the improvement of streets, etc., the Board of Public Works has suspended all work on streets, avenues and alleys in District Columbia, throwing a large number of men out of employment.

THE STANTON MONUMENT.

The steamer from Philadelphia brought to Georgetown to-day a monument from that city, to be placed over the remains of Ex Secretary Stanton, in Oakhill cemetery. The monument is of the Doric order, procured by his widow and his executors, and cost $2,500. It bears the name of the deceased and date of birth and death, and is made of silver-tinged granite.

EMMIGRATION.

From official returns made to the Bureau of Statistics it appears that during the quarter ending June 30th, 1871, there arrived at the port of Boston, from foreign countries 11,440, passengers of whom 10,442 were emmigrants, 6,032 male, 4,410 female.

DIED.

Charles Dyke, engineer on Robert Fulton's first steamer to Albany, died yesterday, aged eighty-five years. Mr. Dyke also engineered the first steamboat down the Ohio and Mississippi rivers to New Orleans.

INJUNCTION ASKED FOR.

It is stated that seventeen citizens of Washington, opposed to the improvement bill recently passed by the District Legislature, have united in applying to the court for an injunction upon the issue of bonds.

DEFALCATION SETTLED.

The friends of Welman late Deputy Collector of Customs for Savannah, Georgia, have arranged to make good to the Government the entire amount of his defalcations, $8,000.

PREPARING.

Secretary Boutwell is preparing a special opinion, which will probably be promulgated to-morrow, relative to the Kentucky war indemnity claim.

MUST BE LICENSED.

The Solicitor of the Treasury yesterday decided that canal boats entering navigable waters of the United States must be enrolled and licensed.

ATTEMPT TO BURN.

An unsuccessful attempt was made a few nights ago to burn the Irish Protestant Church in Williamsburg.

NIAGARA.

Senator Fenton.

NIAGARA FALLS, July 25.—Senator Fenton was serenaded this evening at the Cataract Hotel. A crowd of two thousand persons were assembled. In response to calls, the Senator appeared, and in the course of his remarks said: We are approaching a period which will decide the political direction of the nation for coming years. Meanwhile, we have important State interests to secure. If we were simply indifferent, and in need only of some fresh incentive, as that which springs from fresh alarm and danger, the recent occurrences in the great city of our State and country would furnish it. I will not now speak of the blunder and in reproof, but I am sure we must all feel the importance of the act on the Union, and more determined efforts to the end that the civil authority may be entrusted to those who will strive at all times to ensure the full protection of the constitution and laws, and administer the public affairs in the spirit and integrity of our free popular government. It should be of little moment who occupy the official positions or enjoy the favor of federal patronage so that they are capable and honest men who fairly and efficiently reflect the good faith and sacred principles of the party. It is to be hoped however that nothing growing out of these or other matters will impair the zeal of any one for the success of the Republican principles in the earnest desire to co-operate with each other. I have been credited in some quarters with entertaining a special concern as to the personality of the presidency with a desire to give the nomination to this or that particular person. The suggestion misconceives my feelings. However unimportant my opinion and expression may be, I have no other wish than that the candidate be the one who most fully embodies republican principles and is best capable of leading our forces to victory.

BOSTON.

Railroad Meeting.

BOSTON, July 25.—At a meeting held in this city yesterday in which the central branch of the Union Pacific; Chicago, Burlington and Quincy; Hannibal and St. Joe; Chicago and Southwestern; Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroads were represented, it was agreed to construct a bridge across the Missouri River at Atchison, a work to be commenced immediately. The Central branch company has made the announcement that they will extend their road up the Republican River to connect with the Union Pacific at the one hundredth meridian.

ROBBERS ARRESTED.

Benjamin Alcott, an Englishman, and Alfred Rigma, a French Canadian, were arrested here to-day as robbers of the Dominion Bank of Toronto, on the 20th of June. They were detected offering several stolen bonds to brokers. In their trunks were found large quantities of burglar's tools. Both were held to await further developments.

HARTFORD & ERIE.

The Executive Council at a meeting this afternoon voted $72,000 toward enabling the Trustees of the Boston, Hartford and Erie Railroad to obtain possession of the road.

NEW ORLEANS.

Officials Removed.

NEW ORLEANS, July 25.—The city council to-day by a vote of five to three adopted a resolution removing from office Recorders Stoes of the second district, and Dumont of the fifth district, also that the Governor be notified of the vacancies created in these offices. No cause is assigned for the removals, but it is supposed Governor Wramouth directed them because he believed these persons opposed his administration.

BURGLARY.

A shoe store at Dumain and Charles street, last night, was burglarized of goods to the value of $3000 stolen. The stock was wagoned off the premises. Two metropolitans on that beat who did not see it have been suspended.

DROWNED.

Frederick Seymour, second officer of the New York steamship Lodona, fell overboard and was drowned on the 18th inst., just off Frying-pan shoal.

THE WEATHER.

The weather for the last two days has been cool and pleasant.

THE WHARTON CASE.

Mrs. Wharton's Insanity--Incidents of Her Early Life.

The Baltimore American says:

Public interest in the Wharton case continues unabated. Mrs. Wharton remains quietly in her cell, and her beautiful and devoted daughter shares her confinement. Their residence has been rented, and will soon be occupied by another family. Many curious reminiscences of Mrs. Wharton's girlhood have been revived by her present notoriety, all tending to show, says the Washington Sunday Herald, that a strain of most remarkable eccentricities, if not of insanity, runs in her blood. During her youthful vagaries as the beautiful belle, Miss Nugent, in Philadelphia, she had an aunt in the insane asylum, and some of her actions indicated that she was at that period infected by the same malady. Her remarkable passion for money was one of these peculiarities, she not only getting away with the very liberal allowance her father gave her, but contracting large debts for the most frivolous purposes, such as sending herself bouquets. It appears, as the Herald learns, from those who knew her at that time, that she was in the habit of wearing several rings at the same time engraved with the initials of different gentlemen, and all of which she purchased for herself. Her preparations for a wedding of which the supposed bridegroom was not advised, was another of those extraordinary vagaries. See was in the habit of making costly presents to her friends, running in debt for the purpose, and this generous habit of mind in late years developed into a hospitality for which she has become quite famous. Our informant says that during these early days, when she was the beautiful but eccentric Miss Nugent, she was in the habit of taking opium, the empty bottles having been found in the bureau drawers of her room when staying at a friend's house. She has been known to order furniture to be made and sent to her father's house, which, of course, would be sent back. She often wrote to gentlemen to come and see her at her father's house. Lieutenant Wharton, it is said, told a friend the morning he eloped with her that he had received a letter from her, asking him to call as she was in trouble, and the friend advised him not to go, as he considered her deranged. Within a few days a letter has been received here from a physician in Philadelphia, which mentions that he has in his possession an order from Mr. Nugent, twenty-seven years ago, to put his daughter Ellen in an insane asylum. From this, of which she seems to have gotten wind, she escaped by marrying Wharton. Whatever the future developments in this case, it seems certain that it must rank among the causes celebres of the criminal courts.

INSANITY AND SUICIDE.

The New York Tribune of Saturday starts a theory of its own concerning Mrs. Wharton, which we copy as of interest in connection with the case. So far as the Tribune's suppositions are based on Mrs Wharton's being subject to epileptic fits, however, they lose their value, as it is understood by those who know best that she is not and never has been thus afflicted. After rehearsing the facts heretofore published, the Tribune goes on to say:

If these statements are correct, we have all the symptoms of neurosis, or nervous disease, breaking out first in a form of acute insanity, especially common to women, then in epilepsy, and finally in homicidal mania. The nervous disorder, of which insanity is one of the outward forms, may remain latent for years, or indicate itself only in slight physical ailments and harmless eccentricities, or, under favorable conditions, may never manifest itself at all. On the other hand, it may vary its shapes in countless ways, appearing now in the form of hallucination, now as melancholia, as mania, as a temporary perversion of the moral sentiments, as impulsive insanity, which deprives the patient of all self-control, although it leaves the reason unclouded, or finally, as a convulsive affection, like epilepsy or cholera. It is a notable fact, having a direct bearing upon the present case, that between none of these various disorders is the connection closer than between epilepsy and homicide mania. "The most desperate examples of homicidal impulses," says Dr. Maudsley, "are undoubtly met with in connection with epilepsy. Sometimes an attack of mania notably precedes an epileptic fit or a series of epileptic fits; but it is not so clearly understood that the mental derangement so occurring may have the form of profound moral disturbance with homicidal propensity."

The epileptic neurosis may exist for a long time in a masked form, and then develop itself, not in convulsions, but in some sudden act of unreasonable violence, and Dr. Maudsley has observed that when it shows itself as insanity, the insanity usually takes the form of deeds rather than words—it is an insanity of action rather than of thought. So commonly indeed does suppressed epilepsy develop itself as homicidal mania, that the same eminent authority declares that "whenever a murder has been committed suddenly, without premeditation, without malice, without motive, openly, and in a way quite different from the way in which murders are commonly done, we ought to look carefully for evidence of previous epilepsy, and, should there have been no epileptic fits, for evidence of an aura epileptica and other symptoms allied to epilepsy." It cannot be said as yet that the whole series of murders attributed to Mrs. Wharton were committed without apparent malice and without motive; but no motive has been suggested to account for most of them, and, so far as our present information extends, there has been no reason to believe in the existence of any malice.

The frequency of homicidal mania in women is a startling phenomenon which possibly calls for other than exclusively physiological explanations. The London nurse maid, Agnes Norman, who is now waiting trial for the murder or attempted murder of children committed to her care, is no doubt a victim of this disorder. She seems to have exercised the homicidal propensity during several years and in several families, without the slightest motive; and the impulse with her was so strong that when there were no children to strangle she destroyed pet animals. A female nurse in a hospital on the continent was convicted a year or two ago of killing the patients in her ward. She confessed the murder of a great number for no reason whatever except the gratification of a morbid curiosity to witness the death agony. Several remarkable cases of this dreadful mania are quoted by Dr. Elam in his interesting volume entitled "A Physician's Problems," and there is one very much like that of Agnes Norman, except that the girl gave timely notice of that propensity, and was prevented from doing mischief. Almost any insane asylum will furnish instances, and we shall not be surprised if the Sherman poisonings prove to be attributed to the same class of mental disorder.

It should be observed that homicidal mania is frequently unaccompanied by delusions of any kinds, that the mind remains clear and appreciates the economy of murder, and that the patient often suffers great mental agony through the consciousness of inability to resist the violent impulse. How far such persons should be held accountable to the law is a delicate and difficult question; which can be settled by no general rule. Under the English law they would nearly all be regarded as sane enough to be hanged, even though they were not sane enough to control their actions, for the rule in Great Britain is to regard everybody as legally sane who is able to discriminate between right and wrong. This is a brutal injustice, based upon a misconception of the nature of mental disease; for it is certain that there are cases in which the perceptive faculties remain unaffected, while the will is absolutely paralyzed. On the other hand, our own system, or want of system, is unquestionably too lax. Almost any criminal can obtain a medical opinion that he was insane at the moment of committing his offence, and juries are but too ready on such pseudo-scientific testimony, to pronounce a verdict of acquittal and let the murderer go free. It should be borne in mind that there are forms of mental disorder which predispose persons to the commission of crime, without actually destroying their free will, and such persons are responsible for their actions, though they really are insane. For the unfortunate subjects of an uncontrolable impulse, the safety of the public demands the restraint of an insane asylum.

Celebration.

MADISON, July 25.—An excursion to Lodi, Wisconsin, with twenty-one cars and twelve hundred people, left here this morning to celebrate the completion of the North Western road to that point.

Science and Spiritualism.

A number of leading men of science in London undertook recently to give the benefit of a thorough investigation to Mr. Home, the famous American spiritualist and medium.

The Committee consisted of Mr. Crookes a distinguished chemist, Fellow of the Royal Society, and editor of the Review; Dr. Huygens, the astronomer, also of the Royal Society and Mr. Sergeant Cox. They subjected Mr. Home to many careful experiments which have gone far to convince them of the existence of a certain nervous force which they call "psychic," and which Sergeant Cox believes to be propagated from one individual to another through a certain "nervous atmosphere of various intensity enveloping the human structure." This is probably identical with the brain-wave theory of magnetic influences which scientists some years ago started to account for the phenomena of mental sympathy illustrated notably by clairvoyance and the workings of the toy called "Planchette." In Bulwer's Strange Story, it will be remembered, a somewhat similar theory is elaborated with great ingenuity.

Some of the experiments vouched for by these gentlemen are certainly exceedingly strange. Hitherto Mr. Home's wonders have usually been achieved in the dark, light, according to the mediums, lessening the spiritualistic forces. But this time they were conducted in full view of these keen and trained inquirers, eager to detect the slightest deception or vular legerdemain. In one of the experiments an accordeon was inclosed in a copper wire cage, through the top of which only one of Mr. Home's hands could be inserted, to hold the accordeon by the top. This apparatus was put under the table at which the Committee sat with Mr. Home, two of them pressing on his feet with theirs, while one of his hands was placed on the table and the other inserted in the opening of the cage. In this position the instrument "first began to vibrate and then to play tunes."

Mr. Crookes' hand, placed on that one of Mr. Home's which touched the accordeon, meanwhile "found it absolutely still." And even when both of the medium's hands were held above the table, the instrument continued to float about the cage and to play. Again Mr. Crookes had prepared, without the slightest previous knowledge by Mr. Home, a sort of rough balance-scale, with a self-registering index to note the amount of pressure applied to it. Standing on this, Mr. Crookes, whose weight is a 140 pounds, could indicate a pressure of only one and a half pounds, when he jumped up and down. Mr. Home, "sitting in a low easy chair, simply applied his fingers lightly" at a point near the fulcrum of the lever, and the index marked a fluctuating pressure of from three and a half to six pounds.

How to explain facts like these, asserted on the authority of such capable and unimpeachable witnesses, M. Zeon himself might find a difficult task. We may, indeed say that by Mr. Holme's peculiar art these English scientists have been brought into that "peculiar psychical condition in which a simple trick appears a mysterious phenomenon." But, if these gentlemen do not rate Mr. Home as a juggler, they are certainly careful not to express belief in his supernatural pretensions. Whether we accept the facts they elicited as having proved that "in the presence of certain specially gifted or specially organized individuals, a force develops itself which produces without contact many of the results of muscular effort," they are at least sufficiently remarkable and important to be worthy of diligent scientific inquiry. It has long been a dream with what we may call sentimental psychologists that such a force existed. Its discovery would explain many of those mysteries of spiritualism which baffle the learned and appal the ignorant. As has so often happened before in the slow march of human enlightenment, mediums may perhaps prove to be only premature philosophers, versed, it may be unconsciously, in the knowledge of things dimly understood, or not at all, by the mass of mankind.

A California Monte Christo.

George Alfred Townsend, in a San Francisco letter to the Chicago Tribune, gives this account of a prominent Californian:

Alviza Hayward is the hero of a story equal to "Monte Christo." He is a Vermonter, who operated with a man named Chamberlain in a gold lead which was full of indications, but yielded nothing tangible. Chamberlain at last went away disconsolate; giving Hayward all his interest. The latter worked at the thing for months, and was buried deeper into the ground, but at last his family was next to starving, all his laborers left him, and he knew of no friend in the world except Chamberlain

"My God!" he said to this man, who had meantime been engaged in stock-raising; "I am on the verge of a great strike; I know it; can't you give me a little money?"

Chamberlain had been on the verge himself several times, and he shook his head sadly. But he had $3,000, his all, buried under a haystack near by, and he went and dug it up.

"Take it, old fellow," he said, with heartiness, "do your best."

With the money Hayward recommenced, and he had worked until it was all spent, and his men were reduced to a bag of beans for nourishment, when to the eye of hope the precious ore blazed suddenly up, yielding the first products of the Amador mine, the richest in the world. When the mine was paying $40,000 a month, Hayward made over to his friend one perfect third of it. Chamberlain retired upon $1,500,000, and moved East to educate his children, Hayward buying back the whole. Finally, even Hayward grew tired, and he sold out the mine to a stock company, of which General Colton is President. The mine will make $450,000 net this year, and Colton said last week;

"The Amador mine will hold out longer than he will."

HENRI QUATRE hoped for the time when every poor man in France would be able to have a fowl in the pot on Sunday. We hope for the time in this conntry when every man will be able to have a barrel of Pier, Dannals & Co.'s cream ale in his cellar.

GEORGE H. PENDLETON, the irrepressible greenback candidate of the Democracy, announces his intention to continue his labors of showing how the National debt can be paid off by the further issue of "irredeemable paper." He evidently does not accept the departure from his old time teachings, in this regard.

IT IS ANNOUNCED from Washington that the dismissal of twenty-nine Assistant Assessors in New York has been decided on. Thus the administration continues to give proof of its determination to reduce the expenses of the government by the removal of all unnecessary officers. Will our Democratic friends make a note of the fact?

FROM all appearances the battle of Dorking is as likely to be fought at sea as it is on land. The Prussian naval officers are thoroughly acquainted with English and French seaports, and as one of them is reported to have said the other day to an Englishman: "Plymouth! there is not a Lieutenant in the German Navy who could not take a ship into Plymouth in the night time."

THE PHILIPPINE ISLANDS, the scene of the reported terrible earthquake, form one of the groups of the Indian Archipelago and belong to Spain. They are bounded by the Pacific Ocean, the China Sea and the Seas of Celebes and Sooloo. The area of the whole group is about 200,000 square miles, and upon these there are about five million people. There are 1,200 islands in all. Several earthquakes of more or less violence have occurred there since they were discovered by Europeans.

THE editor of our Democratic contemporary is a real good writer, and we would be much pleased to see him exhibiting his truly fine ability in some manly and meritorious course. Democracy evidently does not lend him any inspiration in the main, but when he gets on to one of his side maneuvers, like a defense of a Democratic mob of plug uglies in New York, or a condemnation of loyal Republicans, insisting that TREASON shall not be uttered in the streets of Pittsburgh, he is grand, and gets off a piece which completely throws all of our old ideas of a Fourth of July oration far into the shade. We enjoy him, then.

WE publish this morning the able and comprehensive address of Col. Russell Errett, Chairman of the State Central Committee, and invite all our readers to give it a careful and thoughtful perusal. It fully recites the reasons why the Republican party should be retained in power, and also proves conclusively the bad results that may be expected from the rule of the Democracy. It is a valuable document moreover, for its plain and candid statements of our past political history, and its record of our financial and material condition. Let every Republican read it, and endeavor to have it circulated among the members of the opposing party.

SOMETHING seems to be going on in Germany, which has not yet come to the surface. And the same may be said of Austria. For years the two empires have been at opposite poles, and the journals of Prince von Bismarck maligned the Count von Beust in a way worthy of an Eatonsville or a Memphis paper. Nothing was too severe, nothing too vile to say of him. But now a thorough change seems to have come over the dreams which are being dreamt in that part of the world. The Emperors compliment each other, the chancellors flatter each other in their public addresses and Prince Bismarck's organ, the German Correspondent, speaks of "the frank and dignified words of the Austro-Hungarian chancellor, etc." Such a state of things is very delightful and most desirable from a moral point of view, but what is its political significance?

WHEN there are two horns to a dilemma, hold fast to them both. At least such is or seems to be the working motto of two famous New England families. There are the Adamses, who are prepared for the ascendancy of either of the great political parties, and are ready with a member of the family for any really high diplomatic or executive office. And there are the Beechers. A successful reform without the family name tacked on to it somewhere, would be agony to the Beechers. But as there are doubts as to the success of the Woman's Suffrage movement, the family has prepared for emergencies, and now, if Mrs. Stanton and Mrs. Woodhull, and Miss Hindman, are successful, Mrs. Beecher Hooker and Henry Ward and Thomas Beecher are ready to wave their handkerchiefs and shout, "I told you so!" But if it goes the other way, and old-fashioned ideas prevail, there are Miss Beecher, and Mrs H. B. Stowe, and Edward Beecher, perfectly prepared to soothe the defeated Anthonys and Howes with pleasant references to how different it might have been if their advice and predictions had been attended to.

THE introduction of Steel boilers on to our river and ocean steamers dates back but two or three years. The experiments have in each case proved highly satisfactory and conclusive, both as to greater tensile strength, thus guaranteeing greater safety, and as to durability. The severest tests yet made with iron boilers place their tensile strength at fifty-five thousand pounds, whilst the experiments with our Pittsburgh steel boiler plates demonstrate that they will stand a pressure of eighty thousand pounds, before yielding. A satisfactory result is also attained on the claim for durability. Boilers which have been in constant use for thirty months past have as yet required not the least repairs. We are glad to learn that this new field for Pittsburgh enterprise is on the increase, and that boat and ship builders are adopting our steel in nearly every case in the construction of their steam boilers. We note with a feeling of pride that our correspondent in Japan, writes us that the boilers in the steam launches which recently so jauntily run the gauntlet of the Chinese guns, at the mouth of the Corea, were made of Pittsburgh steel, by two of our boiler manufacturers.

THE World at last has been forced, along with Mr. Oakey Hall, to reply to the charges of robbery of the New York Treasury, in the interest of the Tammany Ring. But what a lame effort the public is treated with. Instead of an attempt to disprove the charges of outrageous fraud, brought against the City Controller and the Mayor, in which the figures are given, along with the names of the persons who received the stolen funds, the World gives its readers a lengthy diatribe on the political history of the publisher of the New York Times, Mr. George Jones, who is supposed to be the accuser, in the hope, doubtless, thus to distract the public attention from the crimes charged, to the man who prosecutes them with such bold and confident assurance. This will not satisfy a thinking, reading, tax-paying community, like the business and better portion of New York, nor will it tend to disabuse the mind of any intelligent man throughout the country. The World and Oakey Hall must use other arguments, to disprove serious and alarming facts, wherein great frauds are clearly proved against the rulers of our chief city. The people demand a full and candid investigation of these charges, no matter who is the author of them, nor under what provocation they were uttered. It is high time for an exhibit to be forthcoming from these authorities, when crimes and misdemeanors are charged against them, and the debt of the city under their exclusive control, is being fast augmented by the addition of millions upon millions of dollars. Is it any wonder that the people are clamoring for a statement of the city's affairs, under the official seal? Is it not significant that this statement is so long withheld, if, indeed, it be not already absolutely refused? The debt of New York city is now supposed to be about eighty-five millions—more than twice the debt of our State. We say supposed to be, as no one outside of City Hall can know, as all records are withheld from the public. It may be twice that amount; it cannot be less, as bonds of the city have been found amounting to that sum. Fifty-two millions of this debt have been added since the present Tammany Ring were placed in authority. Besides this amount of increased debt the Ring have annually collected a greater tax per capita, than is levied by any other city in the country, or indeed in any country. If these men be honest, let them prove it to the world, by exhibiting proper vouchers for their vast expenditures. If they be not honest, they should pursue their present course, and say nothing. Silence, with a becoming sense of shame, would be their most prudent, as well as their easiest way of escaping the just judgment and indignation of all honest men.

MONUMENTS SUGGESTED.

As the Allegheny Commons now offer a suitable locality for the erection of memorials, it is reasonable to suppose that, inasmuch as three such monuments have been erected within as many years, there will soon be many objects of art scattered through those tasteful pleasure grounds and dedicated to the memory of the great departed. In our opinion it would be well to avoid thus commemorating any mere local celebrities. We do not think it well to rear statues which would be likely to provoke from the stranger a query as to their identity. Most beautiful and proper places for such memories are provided by our various cities of the dead. There have been so many men, whose names and memories belong to the world, that it would seem as if the builders of future monuments in the park need only select the most appropriate of these as the objects of popular honor.

There are three names, however, which in our opinion, should be perpetuated in some fitting form in our parks. Names which, while known to all Christendom, must always have a peculiar significance to patriotic Pennsylvanians. These are GEORGE G. MEADE, EDWIN M. STANTON and ROBERT MORRIS.

Of General Meade, who drove an invading army from the soil of our commonwealth, and whose whole career has been so noble, and of the great war secretary, so long a resident of Pittsburgh, it is surely unnecessary to speak at length. There can scarcely be one of our citizens, whatever may be his politics or nationality, who would not acknowledge that no more worthy objects of popular public honor could be found. Of the third name, Robert Morris, it may be well to speak at greater length, for, though his services were as great, his patriotism unequalled, and the public recognition of his actions as world wide as in either of the other cases; time has blunted the memory, and other, nearer lights have somewhat cast his in the shade. He was born in England, on the 20th of January, 1734, but at the age of 13 he came to this country and two years later entered the counting-room of Charles Willing of Philadelphia. So valuable were his services that, when but twenty years of age, he became the parner of Mr. Willing's son, and the firm soon became the most extensively engaged in commerce of any in the country. In the meantime he was not unmindful of his duties as a citizen, and a man and took an active part in colonial politics. He was essentially American in his sympathies from the first, and was prominent in his opposition to the stamp act and other obnoxious measures. He was a delegate to the Congresses of 1775–76–77, and in addition to this, in 1776, undertook the administration of the colonial finances, and many times pledged his own large private credit to procure food and clothing for the famishing armies. During his laborious years of service there were at times crises where only by using his own means was he able to avert utter bankruptcy, which at that time meant defeat and subjugation. One instance of this kind was when the expedition against Cornwallis was fitting out when, he was obliged to issue his own notes for $1,400,000 in order to be able to have the men properly equipped and rationed. Nor was it with his purse only that Mr. Morris did good service to the country. More than one of the great men of those trying times, has confessed to having been quickened and strengthened by his cheery never varying confidence. A man who could send several thousand barrels of flour to a starving army, provided at his own expense, is worthy of being remembered, but when the same man saved the credit of the infant nation, managed its navy and encouraged its generals, he surely has a more than ordinary right to the veneration of his countrymen. But Robert Morris' public career did not end with the revolution. In 1787 he was chosen as member of the convention which framed the Constitution of the United States. In 1788 he was elected a member of the first Senate of the United States, and about the same time Washington offered him the position of Secretary of the Treasury, and, upon his refusing that situation, accepted his recommendation, and appointed Alexander Hamilton. Few men have such a full clean page in the world's history; few characters are so deserving of our pride.

THE fashionables at New London pronounce Pequot Paquo, and the Bulletin discourses as follows: "Shades of Uncas! Shall we have to wrestle with Poquetanoc, Pogwamsticock and Wiccopeset in the French language?"

ADDRESS

Of the Republican State Committee of Pennsylvania.

The Republican party, in appealing once more to the people of this State for their support, points with just pride to its record, and it fearlessly claims the renewed confidence of the people because it has been faithful to its trust, and is committed to the only line of policy that can secure continued prosperity to the State and Nation.

The Republicans of this State first carried both branches of the Legislature in 1859, and first elected a Governor in 1860. Since then it has held control of the legislative and executive branches of the government until last winter, when the Democrats obtained control, temporarily, of the Senate.

In 1861, when Gov. Curtin came into office, the State Debt, in round numbers, was $40,000,000. Shortly afterwards the Southern rebellion broke out, and the State was compelled to borrow $3,500,000, to arm the troops and protect our borders, thus adding that much to the State Debt.

In the ten years that have since passed away, this war loan of $3,500,000 has been paid off; the State Debt has been reduced from $40,000,000 to a little over $29,000,000; the three mill tax which was levied for State purposes on real estate prior to 1861 has been repealed; the tax on professions and occupations has been taken off; the annual contributions of the State to the Public Schools has been greatly enlarged; a system of schools has been built up for the education and support of the orphans of soldiers who died in the war—a noble benefaction, costing over a half a million yearly; and the affairs of the State, generally, have been so managed as to secure prosperity to the people.

The Republicans of the nation elected their Pesidential candidate in 1860, and succeeded against many angry threats from the opposition, in putting him in office in March, 1861. Almost immediately afterwards the government was confronted by an armed rebellion in the South, (openly as well as secretly encouraged by many Democrats in the North, whose sympathies still remain with those who then took arms to overthrow the government,) and was compelled to maintain the honor of the national flag and the integrity of the country at whatever cost; and the four years' war which followed necessarily entailed a heavy debt and burdensome taxation upon the people.

Since the suppression of the rebellion, the country has not only returned to peace but to prosperity. The fears of many that the nation would be bankrupted, her industry paralyzed, and her people ruined, have not been realized. No people ever recovered so soon, so steadily and so surely, from the consequences of war, as we have done; and for this recovery from the destructive influences of civil strife we are mainly indebted to the fostering hand held out by the national government to the industries of the people.

Among the necessities growing out of the rebellion the national government found itself compelled to submit to the States for their ratification, three amendments to the Constitution—one (known as the thirteenth) abolishing slavery; another (the fourteenth) securing the rights of citizens to the enfranchised slaves, and prohibiting the repudiation of any part of the national debt, or the payment of any part of the rebel debt; and another (the fifteenth) prohibiting the States from excluding any one from the right of suffrage on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

These three amendments having all been duly ratified in the method pointed out by the Constitution, are now a component part of that instrument. Their adoption stands as the grandest peaceful achievement of ancient or modern times. No party ever before undertook so great a task; and its accomplishment, in so short a space of time, is a work of which the Republican party may well feel proud.

To secure the complete protection of these emancipated and enfranchised people is now one of the unquestioned duties of the nation; and no party is so fit to be entrusted with that duty as the party which has done the preliminary work. The party which has hitherto continuously resisted the policy thus established, is not the one, now, to carry it out.

During the war for suppressing the Rebellion, and in carrying out the great measures which have necessarily flowed from it, the Democratic party has continuously been in the opposition. It opposed the adoption of stringent measures to put down the Rebellion; the levying of troops to suppress it; the borrowing of money to pay the cost of the war; the Emancipation Proclamation of President Lincoln; the adoption of all the amendments to the Constitution; the reconstruction measures by which the revolted States were brought back into the Union; and, generally, every measure necessary to the successful prosecution of the war or to the successful restoration of peace.

At present, too, it is opposed to the means necessary for raising revenue to pay the interest on the public debt, and secure its steady reduction; is in favor of a semi-repudiation of that debt by paying it in depreciated currency, if paid at all; is watching for an opportunity to annul the new amendments to the Constitution; and is generally committed to any line of policy which will remit the country to its condition prior to 1860.

It may be urged, here, that the Democratic party of this State, in the ninth resolution of the platform adopted by its late State Convention, has acquiesced in the adoption of the amendments of the Constitution we have referred to, and cannot be now charged with hostility to them. We answer that the acquiescence expressed in that resolution has not, itself, been acquiesced in by the rank and file of the party. Over one-third of the Convention voted strenuously against it, and the action of the Convention has since been repudiated by many leading men and journals of the party. Besides, whatever acquiescence has been given, has been given sullenly and not heartily—as a matter of policy, springing from party necessity, and not from a conviction of its propriety. Wherever a vote has been honestly given or voices sincerely raised for this "new departure," it may very properly regarded as an extorted confession that the Republican party has all along been right in what the Democratic party has steadily opposed; and this confessed, what need is there, or can there be, for the further existence of the Democratic party?

When Gen. Grant came into office, in 1869, he announced his determination to secure the honest and faithful collection of the revenue, the steady reduction of the public debt, and such an abatement in taxation as was consistent with this policy. In the space of little over two years this determination, faithfully adhered to, has resulted in paying off $230,000,000 of the public debt, and in the abolition of nearly all the taxes imposed under previous laws.

In addition to this he has, by his wise and firm foreign policy, succeeded in settling all our outstanding difficulties with Great Britain, in a manner alike honorable and advantageous to us as a people. The treaty, lately ratified by both nations, which removes all causes of quarrel, and establishes peace and amity between them, has commanded the admiration of the civilized world and placed the United States in the foremost rank among the nations of the earth. This result is one of which every American may justly feel proud.

To continue the Republican party in power is to continue the policy begun, both in State and Nation, of maintaining the public credit, paying off our debt, reducing taxation, settling international difficulties without bloodshed and sustaining the great principles involved in the measures necessarily growing out of the war.

To restore the Democratic party to power is to destroy the public credit, pave the way for repudiation, bring in the old tide of corruption, mismanagement and extravagance, and open up anew all the questions involved in the reconstruction of the southern States, now settled upon an honorable basis.

For present proof of this we refer to the consequences flowing from the accidental majority of the Democrats in the State Senate last winter. To that fact we owe a session prolonged to the middle of May, at an extra cost of $100,000; the re-establishment of the forsaken policy of employing extra (and useless) officers in the Legislative bodies and granting them extra pay; an appropriation bill increased beyond all former bounds, to the extent of half a million; the defeat of all measures for calling a Constitutional Convention at an early day to put an end to that curse of our State, SPECIAL LEGISLATION; and, if as determined to show that this curse should not be removed by their aid, the enactment of the enormous number of 1800 local bills. And this is but a tithe of what we should have had to endure had they had both Houses and the Governor on their side.

A still further proof of the unfitness of that party to be entrusted with power is to be found in the melancholy history of the late riots in New York. In that city the Democrats have undisputed sway, and, through it, in the State. They had the power in their hands to prevent this riot and bloodshed, but they would not use it either at the right time or in the right way. Why? Because the party is possessed of no principle which can lead it to respect the rights of man, be they civil or religious. Its sole idea of rights is derived from the maxim that MIGHT makes RIGHT. This was clearly evinced in the debate in our State Senate in 1869, on the Fifteenth Amendment, in which the Democratic leader in the State scouted the claim that there were any such things as human rights. The idea, he said, was a myth and a humbug.

And this sentiment of the Democratic leader in Pennsylvania has been carried out to the letter in New York. A few thousand men, in the exercise of their Constitutional right to assemble together inform the authorities of their purpose to parade the streets on a certain day. Another body of men, who always vote the Democratic ticket, and numbering many more thousands, notify the authorities that this parade must not be permitted, and that if it is, they will attack it and disperse it, no matter at what cost of life or limb to the party attacked. The Democratic rulers of New York at once declined to defend the few against the many in the exercise of their Constitutional right; deny that there is any such right; yield to the defiance of the mob, because it has might on its side, and, at the demand of that mob, forbid the peacable and law-abiding citizens to assemble together as the Constitution permits, or to exercise the rights which the law allows.

It is true that at the last hour, when the public indignation had been aroused at this base abandonment of the civil rights of the people, the State authorities stepped in and permitted what the city authorities had previously forbidden; but the mob had already triumphed too far to yield peacefully to this sudden change, and the slaughter which followed is attributable solely to the official cowardice which first yielded to a mob it was afterwards unable to control.

It is plain, moreover, that the first act, of prohibiting the parade, was the legitimate outgrowth of the principles controlling the Democratic party, that men have no inherent rights and that MIGHT alone gives RIGHT. It brought into view the ferocious claws which, though afterwards withdrawn, the furred foot could not wholly conceal. It was a clear indication of what we may expect throughout the country should the Democratic party ever return to power.

If our civil and religious rights are to be preserved in this country against the attacks of turbulent mobs and the demands of a wild fanaticism, they can be preserved only by the party based immovably on a deep regard for Human Rights and Constitutional guarantees; and in the light of these facts we appeal to the people of Pennsylvania to rally to the support of their imperiled Constitutional franchises, and by the defeat of the Democratic party, which has proven itself alike unwilling and unable to uphold them, teach it that the people will bear no yielding to mob violence nor tampering with their constitutional rights, and will never permit the surrender of the citadel they have erected at a bloody cost sacred, now and forever, to CIVIL AND RELIGIOUS LIBERTY.

FEAT IN RAILROADING.

Gauge of the Ohio and Mississippi Road Changed in Seven Hours.

The Cincinnati Commercial of the 24th says: Between the hours of 4 and 11 A. M. yesterday the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad (main line) from Cincinnati to St. Louis was transformed from a broad-gauge to a narrow-gauge. In seven hours two thousand five hundred men reduced the gauge of three hundred and forty miles of railroad fifteen inches—seven and a half inches on each side. Even to those actually engaged in the work, this seemed an impossibility. Up to 1 o'clock of yesterday morning broad-gauge trains were rushing over the road, east and west, seeking yards from which they were never to roll again on the wide trucks of the past. By 11 o'clock A. M. yesterday new engines, drawing the wide parlor cars mounted on narrow trucks, were traversing the entire length of the transformed road.

HOW THIS CHANGE WAS ACCOMPLISHED.

We will endeavor to explain as clearly as possible. The road was divided into sixty-eight sections, of five miles each; and an average force of forty men to the section—two thousand seven hundred and twenty men in the three hundred and forty miles—was secured to jump to the work simultaneously, at all points on the road, at daybreak yesterday. All along the line between this city and East St. Louis these working gangs commenced at daylight yesterday. Each section gang was divided into two parties that worked toward each other from the extreme points of their five miles, aiming to meet at the middle, making two and one-half miles to each twenty men. Thus the time occupied by forty average workers in changing five miles would be the time devoted to the whole work by the entire force.

DETAILS OF THE WORK.

The task of the day was to move the rails inward seven and a half inches on each side and spike them firmly to their new place—altogether 680 miles of the main line, besides many miles of switches with their frogs.

Already, in the course of two months of easy work, the new lines for the rails on both sides had been fixed by the driving of the inside spikes, under the tops of which the inside "web" or shank of the rail could be immediately fitted.

Many miles of new rails which it was thought necessary to lay at the curves on the outside had already been put down, rendering it unnecessary to immediately move the old outside rails.

The "dentists," as they might appropriately be called, two on each side, led the van with their big claw levers, jerking the inside spikes of the broad gauge. After them, two on each side also, came the "liners," whose business it was to push the rails inward to the new lines, and "line up" the rails firmly, while the squads of "spikers" that followed drove the spikes firmly in over each "web," on about every other tie, leaving the completion of the spiking to be accomplished in a more leisurely manner.

WHY THE CHANGE WAS MADE,

it is hardly necessary to tell; but it can be done in a few words. The wider the track the heavier the rolling stock, the faster the destruction of the costly rails, and the more the expense of keeping up a good road bed—all of which count up in big figures in a year. And there is the additional original cost of running gear and bodies of cars and of repairs, together with many other items. In this country broad gauge roads are a pronounced financial failure, and must, for the present reach of railroad foresight, at least, yield to the narrow.

Some three years ago the managers of the Ohio and Mississippi decided on the change, and went largely into the work of preparation, purchasing many cars. They were forced to abandon the enterprise for a time, but revived it a year ago, and pushed it vigorously to the success attained yesterday.

OVER THE ROAD.

On all the divisions of the road engines were drawing cars containing the officers, yesterday, inspecting the work. These trains ran east from St. Louis and west from this city, meeting those in both directions from Vincennes. By 4 P. M., every foot of the road had been tested and found perfect and ready for the trains to start out on their usual time-table to-day and make time everywhere. By the time this reaches the eye of the reader, trains will be running east and west, just as if nothing had happened. Wier, of the Adams, proclaims as follows:

"The first car through of the Adams Express Company, from New York to St. Louis via the narrow guage Ohio and Mississippi route, arrived in this city last night, and will go forward on the first train this morning."

SOME years ago a gentleman living in one of the frontier towns of a far Western State, had some friends staying with him, to whom he gave a little dinner—the best the place could furnish—and invited, to meet them, a few half-civilized Indians. Of course the "noble red men" were treated to delicacies they had not seen before, and displayed a perhaps excusable inclination to "go through" the bill of fare. A young chief, who had partaken of nearly everything on the table, had been eyeing the mustard for some time, no doubt thinking that such a pretty paste would taste as good as it looked. At length, opportunity occurring, he reached forth in a dignified manner, took a liberal spoonful, and swallowed it without moving a muscle of his countenance; but, in spite of his utmost exertions, the tears soon streamed down his cheeks. An aged chief opposite to him, who had been watching the whole proceeding, leaned forward and inquired what he was crying for. He replied, "I was thinking of my poor old father, who died a short time ago." Soon after the old man, being unable to restrain his curiosity, also solemnly took a dip from the mustard pot, and swallowed it without the quivering of a muscle; but his eyes were not as strong as his will, and the tears soon trickled down his cheeks. It was now the young man's turn. Leaning forward, he inquired the cause of the grief; to which the elderly red party replied, "I was thing 'twas a pity you hadn't died when your poor old father did."

ROULETTE, faro, and rouge et noir have been established in a "retired building among the trees on a hill side," at the White Sulphur Springs, Virginia. The place is somewhat less gorgeous than the den of the Hon. John Morrissey, at Saratoga, and the proprietor grumbles somewhat at the slowness of "business." He hopes for the best, however, when the height of the season arrives, and trusts serenely in Providence.

THE BEST TRUSSES IN THE WORLD.

If there is any infirmity that needs care and extra attention it is that of Rupture of the bowels, as there can hardly be any protrusion of them, even for an hour, without endangering life and exposing the patient to imminent peril. We have examined hundreds of persons who have gone all the rounds in the vain endeavor to obtain suitable Trusses to retain their rupture, and without being successful Not one of these cases but could have been cured in the early stage of rupture, and even after years of neglect many of them can be cured, if they will only make application to some one thoroughly conversant with the malady in question. What, to most persons, is the expense of a few dollars for a well-fitting Truss, properly applied, when in many cases it is the means of saving a life and adding to his comfort for years? The prevailing belief that rupture is incurable has done incalculable mischief by making persons careless with regard to the same; whilst, if they did try to get well, they can certainly be no worse off for having made the attempt. There are so many cases that resemble rupture that we would advise all our readers to make application to a competent establishment, such as Dr. KEYSER'S, 167 Liberty street, where Trusses from two to twenty dollars can be obtained.

A PERILOUS SEASON.

Glorious and delightful as the Summer weather is, its tropical heat is a severe trial to the vital powers. Even the strongest are sometimes prostrated by its effects. The common phrase applied to this condition of the body is "general debility." Now, general debility arises from, and includes a variety of ailments. The liver is more or less affected, the bowels are either constipated or too much relaxed, the stomach but half performs the work of digestion, the appetite is poor, and the spirits depressed. This is what is called general debility. It is a general disarrangement of all the physical functions, and requires as a remedy a medicine that will regulate them all. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is specially adapted to this purpose. Its general operation is not confined to a single organ. If the liver is affected, it restores its tone. If the stomach is torpid, it regenerates it. If the nerves are tremulous and weak, it braces and reinforces them. If the mind, which ever sympathizes with the body, is gloomy and despondent, it relieves the difficulty, and soon brings the whole mechanism of the body into harmony with the laws of health.

There is no civilized nation in the Western Hemisphere in which the utility of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as a tonic, corrective, and antibilious medicine, is not known and appreciated. Throughout the Tropics it is considered, both by the people and the profession, the standard specific. While it is a medicine for all seasons and all climates, it is especially suited to the complaints generated by the weather, being the purest and best vegetable stimulant in the world.

Beware of the Bitters made of acrid and dangerous materials, which unscrupulous parties are endeavoring to foist upon the people. Their name is legion, and the public has no guarantee that they are not poisonous. Adhere to the tried remedy, Hostetter's Bitters, sold only in glass and never in kegs or barrels.

This Cement is equal to any cement made in the United States, in many respects better than the Louisville Cement or the Rosendale, and decidedly better in all respects than the Uniontown or Akron Cement. It has a smaller amount of shrinkage, sets gradual, bears as much sand as any cement made, and gets as hard; stands frost well it has all the qualities that hydraulic cement should have. The facilities for getting this cement is greater than all others in this market, less freight and fresher, which is an important matter Having but a short distance to ship we can therefore sell cheaper than any other in the market.

7-30 GOLD LOAN
OF THE
Northern Pacific Railroad.
RAPID PROGRESS OF THE WORK.
The building of the Northern Pacific Railroad (begun July last,) is being pushed forward with great energy from both extremities of the line. Several thousand men are employed in Minnesota and on the Pacific coast. The grade is nearly completed 266 miles westward from Lake Superior; trains are running over 130 miles of finished road, and track-laying is rapidly progressing toward the eastern border of Dakota. Including its purchase of the St. Paul & Pacific Road, the Northern Pacific Company now has 413 miles of completed road, and by September next this will be increased to at least 560.
A GOOD INVESTMENT.—Jay Cooke & Co. are now selling, and unhesitatingly recommend as a profitable and perfectly safe investment, the First Mortgage Land Grant Gold Bonds of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company. They have 30 years to run, bear Seven and Three-Tenths per cent. gold interest, (more than 8 per cent. currency) and are secured by first and only mortgage on the ENTIRE ROAD AND ITS EQUIPMENTS, and also, as fast as the road is completed, on 23,000 ACRES OF LAND to every mile of track, or 500 acres for each $1,000 bond. They are exempt from U. S. Tax; principal and interest are payable in gold; Denominations; Coupons, $100 to $1,000; Registered, $100 to $10,000.
LANDS FOR BONDS.—Northern Pacific 7-30's are at all times receivable at TEN PER CENT. ABOVE PAR, in exchange for the Company's Lands, at their lowest cash price. This renders them practically INTEREST BEARING LAND WARRANTS.
SINKING FUND.—The proceeds of all sales of Lands are required to be devoted to the re-purchase and cancellation of the First Mortgage Bonds of the Company. The land grant of the Road exceeds Fifty Million Acres. This immense Sinking Fund will undoubtedly cancel the principal of the Company's bonded debt before it falls due. With their ample security and high rate of interest, there is no investment accessible to the people which is more PROFITABLE OR SAFE.
EXCHANGING U. S. FIVE-TWENTIES.—The success of the New Government 5 per cent. Loan will compel the early surrender of United States 6 per cents. Many holders of Five-Twenties are now exchanging them for Northern Pacific Seven-Thirties, thus realizing a handsome profit, and greatly increasing their yearly income.
OTHER SECURITIES.—All marketable Stocks and Bonds will be received at their highest current prices in exchange for Northern Pacific Seven Thirties. EXPRESS CHARGES on Money or Bonds received, and on Seven-Thirties sent in return will be paid by the Financial Agents. Full information, maps, pamphlets, etc., can be obtained on application at any agency, or from the undersigned. For sale by

LOUISVILLE CEMENT.
The Best--The Cheapest.
The Cement has acquired the reputation as the first in the country in hydraulic strength and uniform reliability.
It is now in general use from the lakes to the Gulf, most of the public works in the West and South being constructed with it.
The mills at Louisville having been enlarged and improved, can supply any demand, and though the Cement has always, for 30 years brought higher prices than competing brands, it is from this time the determination of the manufacturers, in order to largely increase the sale and extend the use of their Cement, to furnish it in the principal markets at prices which make it the most available and economical for all classes of work.
The large capacity of this Cement for taking sand renders it much the cheapest that can be used for buildings of any kind.
At the reduced prices in Pittsburgh its cost is not much above common lime, which makes it unquestionably to the interest of owners and builders that the foundation of every good house should be laid in this Cement.
A large stock of fresh Cement has just been received by barges from Louisville, and is offered at greatly reduced prices by the following dealers:

Finance and Trade.

NEW YORK, July 25, 1871.

Gold has been more active to-day. The Bull clique are trying to advance the price again, but it hardly seems probable they will succeed. It opened at 112⅜ and closed at 112⅜@112½. From 1 per cent. per annum to 1-32 of 1 per cent. per day was paid for use. One small lot was loaned at 1 per cent. for carrying. Clearings 3,000,000; exports to-day 65,000.

Governments dull and steady on everything except sixes of '81 and currency bonds, which were strong and advanced.

Stocks active and business seems to have commenced again, though but few large operators are seen at the exchange. Rhode Island and North Western were depressed again today with the intention of influencing the remainder of the list, but the market was so largely oversold that any attempts of the Bears to cover would start the prices upwards. The chief interest has been in Lake Shore, Northwestern, Ohios, Western Union, Rock Island, Union Pacific and Hannible and St. Joseph, the latter about the close of the day broke suddenly from 71⅛ to 67⅜ for common. The market closed dull and steady. The Post says it is particularly hazardous to sell Lake Shore or Western Union. Money easy at 2@2½ per cent. State bonds dull and heavy with exception of Tennessee which is steady.

Sterling exchange 110⅛.

—John Bull has recently been beaten on his own ground, and in a branch of business that he justly prides himself upon—that is, iron work—by an American firm. The case referred to is that of the railway company, which is to run a line from Halifax to Quebec, and which advertised for proposals for supplying the bridges needed on their line, under specifications rigidly requiring each bridge to be constructed wholly of wrought iron, and capable of sustaining, in addition to their own weight, a pressure of 1¼ ton per lineal foot, without straining the iron in tension to over 10,000 pounds per square inch. The iron of the 200 feet spans was to be capable of bearing 60,000 pounds per square inch, before breaking; that of the 100-feet spans 50,000 pounds per square inch. There were thirty-six bidders for the work—twenty foreign and sixteen American. The short spans were awarded to an English firm at Manchester, and, we are glad to say, the long spans to Clark, Reeves & Co., Phœnixville, Pennsylvania, who were the lowest bidders.

BEANS—There is some inquiry for small lots of prime navy and the market is almost bare; this kind would sell readily at $2 per bushel, perhaps $2.35.

BROOM CORN—Market quiet and unchanged; we can report occasional sales, mostly in small lots, at 5@7 cts per lb, as to quality.

The mills are making a difference of 10@12 cts per bushel between new and old, and they will want considerable old stock for some weeks to come. Oats continue a little weak, and, as the impression is pretty general that prices will go lower, the demand is mainly for small lots, as both dealers and consumers are not disposed to carry any more stock than they can help; old may be quoted, on spot, by the car load, at 60@61—would not bring these figures to arrive, as they can be laid down here from Chicago at about 57@58. New Oats may be quoted at 48@50, for early delivery, buyers furnishing sacks. Corn weak and a shade lower; we can report one car mixed ear, in bulk, at 66; and 5 cars good mixed shelled at 68. PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY July 25, 1871.

The oil market continues very dull, little or nothing doing in either crude or refined, and, while hopes of an early improvement are still entertained, the indications at present are not very encouraging. The producers still refuse to make concessions sufficient in crude to justify refiners in buying, while, on the other hand, exporters are unwilling to pay any advance for refined; thus it will be seen that refiners are unable to make a movement one way or the other, and, in consequence, business of necessity must languish, as there seems to be no help for it. Indeed, refined, instead of appreciating any in value, is slowly but steadily declining, and the advices both from the east and Europe are discouraging, so far, at least, as prices are concerned. Stocks are reported as accumulating at the seaboard; vessels scarce and freights high, and, as noted in our report of Monday, some of the exporters, in consequence of the unfavorable state of affairs, both at home and abroad, are selling in preference to shipping. Another point made in favor of lower prices for crude is the fact that the production is steadily increasing; this we believe is generally conceded, and is not without its influence on the market.

RIVER NEWS.

The river continues to recede slowly with 26 inches in the channel by the metal mark last evening. Weather clear and pleasant.

The Billy Parsons, from Wheeling, is the only arrival we have to report. She had about all the freight she could bring on the water, including a large amount of hay.

The towboats J. H. Bigley, Wm. Cowan and John A. Wood are laid up at New Albany.

The celebrated "capstan case," in which John S. McMillan, Hugh Campbell and John Shaffer are plaintiffs, and John L. Rhodes, A. C. McCallum, Jr., James Barclay, George W. Clarke and Adam Jacobs defendants, came up in the United States Court yesterday. Full particulars will be found in our local columns.

—The following letter in reference to marine insurance is from the St. Louis Democrat: I notice a communication in your paper, of the 14th inst., dated Sioux City, July 10th, speaking of the insurance on steamboats, etc. It states that the Ida Rees No. 2, lately sunk, was not bulkheaded. I wish to correct that error. The Ida Rees was bulkheaded fore and aft, and was inspected by Mr. Miller, of your city, who well knows that the boat was in fine condition. I think Mr. Miller, inspector for the underwriters, will say she is a much safer boat for the Missouri river than any boat of the Kountz line.

The former article no doubt was intended as a card for the Kountz steamers, to which I have no objection as long as they state facts.

Captain Barnard, of your city, agent for the underwriters, has gone to the wreck, and will on his return substantiate the above.

E. H. DURFEE, President N. W. T. Co.

—The Vincennes Sun says: The engineers surveying the Wabash river arrived here last week, and after a delay of a few days, waiting for their boat, proceeded up the river on Monday last. Their survey, beginning at the mouth of the river and running to this point, has proved beyond doubt the practicability of the scheme, as ample water is found for medium steamers nearly all the year. The accumulation of drift-wood, sand-bars and snags is so great that time will be required to remove them. In some places the channel must be straightened and deepened, but the cost will not prove so great as has been supposed. A few wing-dams will be necessary where the channel is wide. The main expense will be incurred in building a new lock and dam at the Grand Rapids. The survey will be carried as far up the river as Lafayette.

—A Quincy, Illinois, dispatch, dated the 20th, says: The steamer Northwestern struck the bridge here in passing down at 2 o'clock this morning, carrying away her starboard guard and smashing a barge in tow. The collision caused considerable panic among the passengers, and for a time it was thought the boat would sink. She was repaired, however, and proceeded to St. Louis, leaving the barge behind.

—The steamer Olive Branch, bound from St. Louis to New Orleans, sunk at five o'clock Saturday morning, near Liberty, Missouri, ten miles below Grand Tower. She lies straight, but in deep water, and, it is feared, cannot be raised. Her insurance valuation is $37,500; insured for $25,000 in Cincinnati, Wheeling and Pittsburgh offices. No lives were lost.

—Frank Wilkins, who eighteen years ago was an owner in the New Lucy and Amazonia, of the Illinois river and St. Louis five days line, is now a wealthy manufacturer in England. Lew Broadwell, who fourteen years ago commanded the Eclipse in the New Orleans and Vicksburg trade, is now a resident of St. Petersburg, Russia, and is wealthy.

—The St. Louis Democrat says: James H., Dan. W. and Frank Maratta are all alive and well. They arrived in Cincinnati on Wednesday from Louisville. It seems strange to us that none of that branch of the great Maratta family could never be induced to emigrate to St. Louis, "the future great city."

—The Salvor No. 1 last Friday raised a barge at Grand Tower. The barge contained 1,500 tons coal. The Salvor has gone to raise a barge of iron ore near the same place.

—Gen. Weitzel has notified contractors on the Louisville coanl that they must complete one-third of their contracts every thirty days or forfeit the same.

—The West Wind got out of Wabash river, and will go on the dock at Evansville after the Charmer. The latter went on Saturday afternoon.

—Captain List's Argosy went on the docks at Middleport, Saturday last, having bought off the J. C. Crossley, who was ahead of her in turn.

—The cylinders recently put in the Ida are those of the defunct Imperial. Captain Willoughby got them at Yankton for a nominal sum.

—There are 22 barges and boats, containing half a million bushels of coal, now lying at the mouth of White river to supply the river trade.

—The marine railway company's property at Point Pleasant, West Virginia, has been sold to the Ohio barrel company.

—Capt. Pickett has chartered the Ruth, to take the place of the Selma, in the New Orleans and Opelousas trade.

—The Lizzie Hopkins enters the Red river trade from New Orleans, under command of Capt. J. W. Aug.

—Colorado river, Texas, is reported at a lower stage than it has been for the past 14 years.

—The Argosy has laid up at Vevay, Ind.

GRATES.
GRATES.
Keep Your Houses Clean,
AND
BY USING THE
Wellman Patent Reflector
STOVE AND GRATE,
Which Stand Without a Rival.

The WELLMAN STOVE is furnished with the "REFLECTOR GRATE," and possesses all the advantages of an open fire place; it is specially adapted to houses where the flues are too small to admit a grate, and affords all the comforts of a CHEERFUL OPEN FIRE.

1st. As a radiator of heat it has double the intensity of any other grate.

2d. It is unquestionably the most cleanly—no soot or ashes escaping into the room—which, in the ordinary Grate, prove so detrimental to carpets and furniture.

3d. The combustion is perfect. There is no waste in unburnt cinders—every ounce of the fuel is so completely consumed, that nothing remains but the finest ashes.

4th. As an economizer of fuel—there being an actual saving of at least 25 per cent.

5th. It is highly ornamental.

6th. It is set so deep in the chimney, that it is much safer, and also less liable to puff in windy weather.

7th. A slight motion of the shaker cleanses the entire fire, and causes it to burn with great brilliancy and intensity of heat.

Samples may be seen and references had at the store of W. BARNES, corner Third avenue and Market street, Pittsburgh; W. F. GOODWIN, 66 Federal street, Allegheny, or at the FOUNDRY, corner Duquesne Way and Water street, Pittsburgh.

Parties who are building, or who contemplate changing Grates, are respectfully requested to examine "The Wellman." Satisfaction guaranteed in all cases.

Ladies' Suits—Closing out. Great bargains at that great sale at McKEE, MURPHY & CO.'S.

Albert Fitch, employed at Couch & Chilcrat's planing mill, corner of Forty-third and Penn streets, had his hand split open by a circular saw yesterday.

Another Mayhem Case.—John Maxwell and Thomas Watkins, of the Ninth ward, got into a fight, and during the scuffle Maxwell's ear was bitten off. Watkins was held in $1,000 for a hearing before Alderman O'Donnell.

Temperance Meeting.

The regular weekly meeting of the Young Men's Temperance Society, of Pittsburgh was held last evening in the Hall of the "Home" Duquesne way. The meeting was well attended and the exercises of much interest. Robert Carr Esq., President of the Association occupied the Chair. Minutes of previous meeting read and approved. After the usual introductory devotional exercies, Mr. J. Morrow was introduced and proceeded to deliver an eloquent and effective address. After brief addresses by several gentlemen present, the meeting was adjourned with benediction by Rev. Warner Long.

Mount Union College.

Commencement exercises at Mount Union College, Mount Union, Stark county, Ohio, will be held to-morrow, commencing at 9 A. M. The senior class is larger the present year than it has ever been and is considered one of the best, known in the history of the College. The exercises will continue during the day—the noon recess being taken up with a basket picnic which will doubtless form an agreeable change in the literary feats. The performances consist of the usual programme of essays, orations, discussions, &c., interspersed with vocal and instrumental music.

In the evening the annual contest between the literary societies will take place.

The occasion promises to be unusually interesting, and a cordial invitation is extended to all friends of education.

Connellsville Branch.

EDITORS GAZETTE: If my information is correct, that the Connellsville Railroad Company contemplates making a branch from their road, to connect the Hempfield road at the borough of Washington, I wish to direct attention to a route which is in all respects practicable, viz: crossing the river a short distance above the city, opposite the mouth of Beck's Run; thence up the same to Saw Mill Run; thence to the headwaters of Painter's Run; thence down the same to the mouth of Miller's Run; thence up the same to Cannonsburg; and thence by the Chartiers Valley to Washington. This, it appears to me, is decidedly the most practicable outlet for a railroad from this city, even surpassing the Chartiers Valley.

Funeral of Captain Massey.

The funeral of Captain George W. Massey, of the Avery Guards, took place from his late residence, No. 21 Arthur street, at three o'clock yesterday afternoon, and was attended by a large concourse of friends and mourners. The funeral procession, preceeded by the Guards, under command of First Lieutenant J. W. Askins, and the lodge of I. O. O. F., of which the deceased was a member, proceeded to the Lincoln Memorial Cemetery, More's Brass Band playing an appropriate dirge. He was buried with the accustomed ceremonies of the Odd Fellows, and the usual military salute was fired over the grave by the Company. The religious ceremonies at the house and the Cemetery were conducted by the Rev Mr. Asbury.

Pennsylvania Female College.

We bespeak the attention of our readers, far and near, to the advertisement of this noble institution, already, although only in its second year, justly claiming distinction in comparison with the oldest and best in the east and west. Its location in one of the most picturesque and beautiful suburbs of Pittsburgh, the learning and experience of its extensive corps of professors and teachers, its well arranged, extensive and judicious curiculum, the eminent character and social position of its Board of Trustees, and the highly flattering character of the patronage and auspices by which thus far the institution has been marked, commend it most strongly as one destined to great usefulness, and worthy of the enlarged patronage which its extensive new buildings added to the old, enables it to accommodate.

Something Noteworthy.

Ministers of the Gospel are generally charged with having "a good deal of human nature in them" in the matter of remuneration, and of usually having an open ear to the "loudest" call. We are pleased to say there is one member of the profession in this city who does not seem to be actuated solely by sordid considerations. In the Second U. P. Church on last Sabbath, at the close of service, the pastor, Rev. Thos. H. Hanna, who has recently returned from a three months' visit to California, took occasion to speak of the rumors current in the congregation and community that he had received and accepted a call to San Francisco. Part he said was true, part was not. He had received the call, coupled with an offer of salary at least twice as much as he now received, but he had declined it, and hoped the existing relation between himself and the congregation might be long continued.

We understand the salary tendered was six thousand in gold, which he declined for a salary of twenty-five hundred in currency. Pass around the name of Thomas H. Hanna as a minister of the Gospel who is moved by higher considerations than mere "lucre."

Suicide at Girty's Run.

A case of suicide of a singular and sad character occurred at Girty's Run a few days ago. The victim was John Fisher, who had been until recently employed at the mill of Messrs. Graff, Bennett & Co, near Etna. He had been drinking to excess for several months past. It is supposed that this was caused by the illness and death of his wife which occurred in the latter part of June.

He was arrested and fined by Deputy Mayor Nicholas July 13th. The official then told him he would be sent to the Workhouse unless he did better. He continued drinking, however, until last Thursday a collector called at his house to collect a physician's bill, Fisher seeing the man imagined he was a policeman and running into the house seized a razor and inflicted a terrible gash in his throat.

He was then secured by some of the neighbors and medical attendance summoned. Notwithstanding all efforts, however, after lingering until last Sunday, he died.

He leaves three children, the oldest, a daughter, being married. Just before he died he called his oldest son to his bedside and told him to divide the property equally among the three.

The funeral took place Monday afternoon—no inquest being held on the remains.

Loss of the Steamer Barranquilla.

From the Barranquilla Price Current, published at Barranquilla, U. S. of Colorado, we extract the following item which will be interesting to our steamboatmen, and others

LOSS OF THE STEAMER BARRANQUILLA.

We regret to be obliged to announce the loss of this steamer, Captain W. Campbell, which occurred on the 17th inst. The following particulars have been furnished us by Messrs. Hoenigsberg, Wessels & Co., owners, in this city:

"The Barranquilla left Honda on the 17th, one day in advance of her regular sailing day, as the Captain feared that the river would fall. At La Vuelta de Rincoy she run on a point, and after swinging from rock to rock, she knocked a hole in her, and sunk. Boat and part of cargo insured."

The Barranquilla came to our waters in November, 1869, and was comparatively a new boat. She was built in Pittsburgh, in the United States, under the direction of Captain William Campbell, and was steamed out from New Orleans. For some months past she has been carrying the national mails, and had them on board at the time of the disaster. We learn that she will speedily be replaced by another steamer.

...ave steamer was built here...

...just, unwise and monstrous that no honest man for a moment can favor the project, and we earnestly pray the members of Council to see and watch that no desperate means are effectual to procure the passage of the law.

I, the undersigned Peter McCoy, having lived on Washington street thirty-four years, and having paid the amount of three thousand dollars for paving and opening of Bedford and Washington streets, which I consider I have an interest in it, as it is part of my property on Washington street, and I have also paid one hundred and twenty-eight dollars for a sewer on Canal street last year, which I consider unjust, and the rest of the property holders paid in proportion toward the same.

I think the Pennsylvania Railroad has no right to get more privilege than what her charter calls for. The Councils have no right or jurisdiction to sign away the property of the citizens to the Pennsylvania Railroad or any other railroad.

I hope no person at the next election will vote for any man to be put on the Councils that has an interest in a Railroad, State or Coal yard, to be on the Street Committee. Three thousand good citizens are opposed to it and are able and willing to see justice done.

The plaintiffs all claimed the priority of the invention, Mr. M'Millin claiming that he had consummated the invention in 1851. After a protracted contest in the Patent Office, a compromise was agreed upon, and M'Millin received letters patent in April, 1867. Subsequently he assigned one-third interest to each of the other claimants, Hugh Campbell and John Shaffer. Proceedings were then instituted by them against parties who, as alleged, were using the apparatus and infringing upon the rights covered by their letters patent, and this is one of the suits.

Messrs. Bakewell and Christy appeared for the plaintiffs and Messrs. Acheson and Barton for the defendants. The whole day was occupied in the argument of the case, and yet it was not concluded. CAPTURE OF A SAFE ROBBER.

A Thief Detected by Lightning—An Effectual Electric Shock.

A thief was caught yesterday morning by means of electricity, and, what is stranger still, the rogue himself operated the instrument that caused his capture. About ten days ago A. Morton Hunter, Esq., a young attorney who was a student in the office of C. W. Robb, Esq., at No. 91 Diamond street, and who, since his admission to the bar, has remained in the office with Mr. Robb as an assistant, having charge of the business during the absence of Mr. R., missed a sum of money from the safe in the front office. This circumstance led Mr. Hunter to count the money every evening thereafter just before locking the safe, and on several succeeding mornings he found that small sums had been abstracted. Having become thoroughly convinced that a thief, having in his possession a key to the safe, was making frequent visits, each time reducing the amount of the deposits, Mr. Hunter resolved to entrap the rascal. In order to accomplish this result he hit upon the novel expedient of establishing telegraphic communication from the safe to the dining room of the family who occupy the house as a private residence. To that end Mr. Hunter secured the services of Mr. Prescott, of the Pacific and Atlantic Telegraph office, by whose aid the "detective machinery" was completed by Saturday morning, since which time the amateur detectives have been keeping a strict watch on the premises, patiently awaiting the coming of the thief. The contrivance adopted for the detection of the rascal was at once novel and ingenious. The law office consists of two rooms, separated by folding doors, the safe being in the front room. A telegraph battery was rigged in the dining room, the wires extending to a little stand behind the door. On this stand was fastened a little telegraphic signal machine, to which the wires were attached. Wires ran from the signal machine through the floor at the back of the safe. Holes were drilled into the top of the safe, and into these the wires were conducted; one being fastened into the iron plate of the safe and the other brought forward so that the end was in contact, when the safe door was closed, with a little brass plate screwed on the inside of the upper flange of the door. When the safe was shut, and the brass plate and end of the wire in contact, the circuit was complete and all was still. The instant the safe door was opened the circuit was broken and the little telegraphic machine in the dining room clicked an alarm.

We may here state that Mr. Hunter suspected that the thief was one Benjamin Louther, a young man who was for four years engaged as a clerk in Mr. Robb's office. It was evident that the robber had a key to the safe, and it was also known that the robberies were committed during the early morning hours. Louther was in the habit of visiting the office frequently, and had been seen there upon several occasions early in the morning. It was pretty well settled, therefore, that he was the guilty party, and it only remained to detect him in the act.

Yesterday morning the watchers were rewarded by the capture of the thief. The detectives had disposed themselves in this manner: Mr. Prescott stood at the instrument in the dining room, Mr. Hunter at the door leading from the hall of the private residence to the back room of the law office, while the gentleman who resides in the house posted himself at the door leading from the hall to the vestibule, his position commanding a full view of the front door. About half-past six o'clock Louther was seen to enter the front door and thence into the front room, cautiously closing the door after him. In a very short time the ticking of the instrument in the dining room was distinctly heard by those who were on the qui vive, and the gentleman at the front door sprang into the office in time to find Louther in the act of opening the safe. The culprit, hearing the noise, raised quickly from the stooping position which his dishonest work necessitated, and, turning suddenly around, he made a movement with his right hand as if in the act of drawing a pistol. But before he could present a pistol he was seized in a vice-like grasp, and firmly held until the arrival of Mr. Hunter, which was in a moment after the capture had been effected. Mr. H. presented a revolver at the breast of the thief, maintaining that attitude until the arrival of Chief Hague, who had been notified, and who hurried to the scene and conveyed the prisoner to the watch house. A search of Louther's person resulted in the finding of $140, and the prisoner admitted in the presence of several witnesses that he had stolen $120 of this amount from Mr. Robb's safe. A key to the safe was found in the lock.

Mr. Hunter subsequently appeared before the Mayor and made an information charging Benjamin Louther with entering a building with the intent to commit a felony. The information sets forth that according to deponent's belief, on various occasions, the accused has entered the law office of C. W. Robb, Esq., No. 91 Diamond street, opened the safe and abstracted various sums of money, amounting as nearly as can be ascertained, to between $400 and $500, and that he yesterday morning visited the place for the purpose of repeating the robbery. The prisoner waived a hearing and entered bail in $2,000 for his appearance at the September term of the Court of Quarter Sessions, his father becoming surety.

Louther is a man of about thirty years of age, of fine gentlemanly appearance, and of highly respectable parentage. He was a member of the firm of Louther & Tyson, dealers in non-explosive oils, who had their store on Smithfield street. This firm dissolved a short time ago, and since the dissolution Louther has been spending most of his time at Mr. Robb's office.

J. C. GOLDEN, ESQ.

Wicked Libels Against a Worthy and Upright Citizen.

No legal gentleman of Western Pennsylvania stands higher in public esteem and confidence than J. C. Golden, Esq., of Kittanning, Armstrong county, Pennsylvania. He is universally respected both at home and in all parts of the Commonwealth. Like all men of ability and force of character he necessarily has his enemies. Honorable enemies are to be respected; but dishonorable and sneaking ones who would plunge the poisoned blade of malicious calumny into an unsullied character and endeavor to kill it in public opinion are worthy the detestation of all decent people. Mr. Golden appears to have one or more of the latter sort. But recently a letter purporting to give an account of his "painful suicide" by shooting himself was imposed on the Titusville Herald, the editor of which innocently gave it publication, but was prompt to make reparation when the statement was found to be a wicked and malicious one having its origin only in the brain of some contemptible scoundrel who sought that method to vent his spleen against a gentleman whom he dared not meet openly. This scandalous lie was well nigh forgotten, when it was revived, perhaps by the same villainous author, in a Kittanning letter printed by the Evening Leader of this city one day last week. That item read; "We regret to learn that James Golden, a prominent lawyer, has committed suicide by hanging himself on the deck of the Floating Palace at Parker's. We have not yet heard full particulars of the case."

The wretch who wrote the paragraph knew it was false and malicious, and could have no other object in view than to bring Mr. Golden's name again before the public in an offensively libelous manner. The venom of the writer will be more fully appreciated when it is asserted that the "Floating Palace" was a notorious rendezvous of prostitutes and bawds anchored some time ago at Parker's Landing, and subsequently near this city on the Allegheny river. It was a den of iniquity into which no decent man ever entered. Even associating Mr. Golden's name with such a place in the same paragraph was an outrage on his character, and it was doubly contemptible to couple it with scandalous statement of his suicide.

The Leader has not yet made any disavowal of the monstrous falsehood it gave currency to, and we hope it may be prompt to do so, now as the matter is again brought to its attention. In justice to Mr. Golden and to his very estimable family we publish this much of an explanation, fully aware, however, that none who know the gentleman so persistently and audaciously maligned ever gave any credit to the wicked stories put afloat by his cowardly enemy, who in all probability will be made pay the penalty of his ill doings when brought before the proper tribunal of justice.

—Since writing the above the correspondent and editor of the Leader endeavor to fasten upon this journal the responsibility of the libel against Mr. Golden. The correspondent in feigning not to know the name of the journal in which the original libel was published, the Titusville Herald, convicts himself and displays the hidden hoof. If he had called the Herald by its proper name and not assumed ignorance by designating it as the Banner, he might have managed to escape suspicion. As it is, we hold that some parties should be held responsible for the reiterated libels on Mr. Golden. The Leader editor is as much responsible as his correspondent and both are equally liable to the law for defamation of character. Will they both do justice. We never gave a basis for the item furnished by the Leader relating to Mr. Golden and we defy the conductors of that journal to prove that we did. Let the guilty squirm as they may but justice should and must be done to the grossly injured party.

The owner proposed to bring it here in August but this arrangement could not be made to suit and it is now expected that he will return from Chicago with it, in time for an exhibition in September.

It is proposed to exhibit this picture about three or four weeks and then close for perhaps a week, opening the regular exhibition about the middle of October, and continuing it until March. Every effort is being made to have the display finer than that of last year, and in their expectation thus far the managers have met with the most gratifying success.

FREEPORT SHOOTING AFFAIR.

Verdict of the Coroner's Inquest.

[From our Special Correspondent.]

FREEPORT, July 25, 1871.

EDITORS GAZETTE:—I perceive by your valuable paper to-day, that Jones, who was arrested as an accomplice of Young, who was killed by Mr. Shirley during an attempted burglary, has been interviewed by a reporter and that Jones says he is not guilty of the charge he stands committed; that he came to Freeport to find a man named Mingis, with a view of bringing him to justice, &c. Now this is a very fine story for Mr. Jones to tell in order that he may go unwhipt from justice, when it will be proven that he was Young's accomplice and in fact laid the plans by which Young met his death.

This man Jones is recently from the penitentiary. He came to Freeport and stopped at the Shirley House, represented himself as a United States detective and wore an officer's star on his breast. He said he was watching a gang of counterfeiters and was going to have them arrested. He and Young were continually together and they laid their plans of robbery while together. They took Bruner into their confidence and succeeded in leading him astray. Jones represented to him that if they were detected in the crime and arrested he would, as a United States officer, take them from the civil authorities and let them escape. Bruner, thinking this all true, went with them and is now confined in jail as an accomplice.

The evening the robbery was to take place Jones informed Mr. Shirley that his house was going to be robbed and that he had better be on his guard, and offered his kind assistance to Mr. Shirley in protecting the house. Mr. Shirley, however, declined his proffered assistance, saying he did not think there was any danger, and that he was not prepared to defend his house. Shirley then suggested to Jones for him to retire, as he wished to close up. Jones went up stairs, after which Shirley procured a revolver and took position at the window that Bruner had removed the fastenings from, and waited for the intended robber. At one o'clock some one was heard at the window. Soon it gently rose, when Mr. Shirley fired and almost instantly killed the burglar, Young. The alarm was immediately given, and Bruner and Jones arrested. When Jones was arrested he was in bed with his clothes on.

The general supposition here in regard to Jones is that he was to engage himself to the confidence of Mr Shirley to sit up with him in the room, and as soon as Young came to the window he was to quiet Shirley someway, in order that the robbery might not be interfered with. When arrested he had chloroform enough on his person to put two or three men out of the way.

Bruner, who has given States evidence, says that Jones was ringleader in the whole affair, and that it was Jones who committed the robbery at Sharpsburg. He says their idea was to commit a general robbery and then escape.

The coroner's jury completely exculpated Mr. Shirley from blame, and he has the sympathy of the whole community.

ALIQUIS.

ALL FOR LOVE.

A Romantic Episode on the South Side—A Falsehearted Maiden Plays Smash with a Barkeeper's Affections—He Attempts to Commit Suicide.

It is passing strange how blind the votaries of the tender passion become to all things else. It is wonderful how the individual whose heart has been pierced by the barbed shaft of the archer Cupid, finds no enjoyment, when the pleasure he has anticipated is snatched rudely from his expectant grasp.

In the busy little village of East Birmingham, amid the clattering of her workshops and the curling smoke of her mills, for some time has lived the hero of our sketch. Here he has followed week upon week the avocation chosen by him in early life—that of retailing ardent liquors to the thirsty denizens of the borough. Until the past few months his affections have been entwined only about his handsome bar and around his burnished glasses. But since that time, a change came o'er the spirit of the man, resulting from his newly formed acquaintance with a maiden fair to look upon. She came, he saw, and she conquered. He loved not wisely, but, alas, too well. For a time everything passed smoothly on, and he was happy in his new found joy. But there came an ill-starred day for him, when she, upon whom had been lavished all the wealth of his affections and expended all the overplus of his hard-gotten gains, met and became enamored with another of a like profession.

The status of affairs was soon perceived by Lover No. 1, and when he made the appalling discovery that No. 2 had supplanted himself in the affections of his Dulcinia, pale Melancholy marked him for her own, and he became in fact, to all intents and purposes insane. His once bright, lustrous eye grew dim and dull, his full and rosy cheek became pale and haggard, his firm, quick step changed to a frail gait, and he moved about with woe-begone air and mien of one dejected. He courted solitude and indulged much in soliloquy's partaking of the tenor of the widely known "To be or not to be" of Hamlet. His friends noticed of late that he was growing worse and worse, and feared that he might yet be led to end his life, and have kept a close watch upon his movements. Suddenly, a day or two since, when behind his counter, he drew a pistol, and placing it close to his breast he pulled the trigger. Fortunately it missed fire, and before he could make a second attempt friends who were near took the weapon from him. A strict watch is now kept upon the movements of the unfortunate and broken-hearted swain. We await with interest further particulars, and in the meantime to our masculine readers we say, with Tennyson, "Beware, oh beware."

AN ODIOUS ORDER.

Trouble on the Pleasant Valley Road—Rebellion Among the Men.

There is trouble on the Pleasant Valley Road. Quite an excitement was created yesterday at the stables by the summary dismissal, or rather withdrawal, of several of the men who had refused to comply with an odious order. It seems, so the story goes, that the company some time ago fitted up a boarding house convenient to the stables, and put it in charge of a keeper. A number of the men made the house their headquarters, but recently grumblings loud and deep have been made against the manner in which the establishment is conducted. The men allege that it is conducted upon a plan characteristic for its economy; that the food in quality is not fit to eat, and in quantity would not be sufficient to sustain very vigorous life. They also complained of the lodging accommodations. Finally the dissatisfaction increased to such an extent that about a week ago half a dozen of them left the place and secured other quarters.

This freedom of choice seems not to have been agreeable to the Superintendent. Remonstrances, however, were of no avail, the men refused to go back, and finally an order was issued on Monday directing them to return or be dismissed. The Superintendent in justification of this order claimed that the house was more convenient for the men, and that the objections against it would be remedied. It was necessary to have the employes near to the stables in order to insure promptitude in the running of the cars. It was also contended that the evils complained of would be remedied.

The men, however, refused to comply with the order and thus when the obstinate ones reported yesterday morning and expressed their determination to choose their own boarding house—there were half a dozen vacancies created on the line, four conductors and three or four drivers threw up their situations. The Superintendent, however, remained firm and managed by active exertions to have their vacancies temporarily supplied; a blacksmith in one case left his anvil and took charge of a car, and a youth of tender years was pressed into service. The running of the cars was thus not interfered with and probably but few of the passengers knew of the trouble—although the appearance of so many new men in one day on the road occasioned some surprise.

It should be stated that the odious order was issued upon the responsibility, so far as we could learn, of the Superintendent of the road, and it remains to be seen whether his action will be sustained by higher officials.

SOUTH PITTSBURGH COUNCIL.

Regular Monthly Meeting Last Night.

The Council of South Pittsburgh held a regular monthly meeting last evening.

Present—Messrs. Cassiday, Sheargold, Kerr, Brown, Moorhead and Burgess Hamilton.

The minutes of the preceeding meeting were read and approved.

The Street Committee reported that the street expenses for the month were $118,08, which were ordered to be paid.

The clerk, Justice Barker, read, for the information of Councils:

"An act authorizing the borough to borrow $5000, and issue bonds bearing 7 per cent. interest, said loan to be applied to the erection of a hose house, and fire appurtenances, and furthermore levy a tax not to exceed one per cent. for fire purposes."

The bond of Mr. Andrew Schober, who was awarded the contract for building the new house for $4,300, amounting to $8,600 for the faithful performance of his contract, was read and approved.

A bill for hose amounting to $39,38, was read and referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. Patterson—The Street Regulator states that when he had examined Sixth street, at the intersection of Manor, found that the railroad company was crossing it at a grade of one foot and six inches higher than the ordinance extending the right of way called for. The grade was to be lowered three feet, but it had only been lowered one and a half feet. He will make a survey of the street on Thursday, and endeavor to fix the grade, otherwise the street would be destroyed for all practical purposes.

On motion of Mr. Brown, the Street Commissioner was instructed to put in the curbing on the south side of Carson sreet, and then inform the railway company that the street is ready for paving from the curb to the car track.

Mr. Moorehead directed attention to the improper condition of the boardwalk leading to Mount Washington, and suggested that it be repaired.

Several members stated that the borough had no control over the boardwalk. Referred to the Street Committee to confer with the Solicitor.

On motion adjourned to meet at the call of the Burgess.

THE STURM INQUEST.

A Verdict of Accidental Death.

The coroner's jury in the case of Jacob Sturm, who several weeks ago lost his life near Brintons station, by the engine on the Pennsylvania road striking him, met yesterdry afternoon and concluded the inquest. It appears from the testimony that the deceased was struck by an engine of the fast line bound eastward. The engineer was put upon the stand and testified that on the night of the accident, the train had just passed Brinton's station and was running at the rate of twenty miles an hour; that he discovered a man on the track who appeared to be walking towards the engine; he at once put down the air brakes, but the distance to the point where the man was walking was so short that, it was impossible to check the train before the deceased was struck by the cow-catcher. The train was stopped and the body taken up and carried back to the station; deceased was quite dead when found.

The flagman at the station testified that the deceased had come to the station on the day before his death; that he acted strangely, appearing to be insane; witness endeavored to persuade him to stay all night at the station house, but he declined.

Mrs. Sturm, the widow of the deceased, was next called. She testified that her husband had often manifested symptoms of insanity, at one time he wandered away from home and was gone several days; he returned without his hat and shoes. The deceased resided on Franklin street, Allegheny.

The jury returned a verdict to the effect that death resulted from an accident.

OAKDALE.

Literary Entertainment by the Oakdale Classical and Normal Institute—Excellent Orations and Beautiful Essays—Enlivening Music—An Immense Throng.

EDITORS GAZETTE: The Oakdale Literary Societies of the Oakdale Classical and Normal Institute gave a grand literary entertainment at the Academy Hall, in Oakdale, on the evening of the 19th inst. The weather was inclement, but notwithstanding this a very large crowd assembled at an early hour and filled the hall almost to suffocation. Indeed the crowd was so great and so noisy that, for a time, it seemed impossible to go on with the performances. Prof. Cooke and Mrs. Douthett, the Principal and Assistant Principal, each addressed the excited throng, but it seemed impossible to restore quiet. Prof. A. T. Douthett, our efficient County Superintendent, was on the stage, and as he is "the right man to say the right thing at the right time," he made a few cutting and appropriate remarks, which quelled the "noisy fellows."

Some of the gentlemen who attend entertainments at Oakdale should receive a lesson or two in gallantry. On this occasion ladies were compelled to stand, swing on the backs of seats, and be pushed and crowded around in the aisle, while big, burly fellows occupied the best seats and took no more notice of the ladies than if they had not been there. In one pew near the stage we noticed eight stout able-bodied gentlemen (?), whilst in the same pew there were two ladies. In another seat there were four ladies, and in the same seat six gentlemen (?), with stout legs and big feet, sat composedly and complacently and gazed at the performers. "Oh, reform it altogether," and let not the stranger who visits Oakdale blush for our lack of gallantry and good sense.

The exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. M. N. Cornelius, of Oakdale. The performances then came in the following order:

English Salutatory—Maggie J. Shaw. A very creditable performance, but owing to the confusion but little of it was heard.

Latin Salutatory—James M. Campbell. Well delivered, but "Dutch" to a majority of the audience.

Select Oration—"Nobility of Labor"—Joseph McNight. Well spoken, with good accent and good discretion.

Essay—"Go to work for the Kingdom of Heaven, and He will pay the hire."—Facie Johns. A model of beautiful and appropriate sentiment.

Select Oration—"The Snow of Age."—C. Jerome Vance. Well spoken.

Select Oration—"Bill and Joe."—G. W. McClain and James Shane. Ditto.

Select Oration—"The Drawbridge Keeper."—Eddie Long. Ditto.

Essay—"Thoughts"—Aggie Keys. A beautiful and well-worded essay, and a credit to the fair author.

Original Oration—"The Future"—Mark Andrews. A fine oration and well delivered. Mr. Andrews will make his mark in the world.

Original Oration—"Cause and Difference"—Jennie Cowan. Well written and delivered in good style.

Recitation—"Barbara Frietchie"—Maria Bockstoce. This beautiful poem of Whittier's was given in an almost faultless manner by Miss B.

Original Oration—"The Discipline of Sorrow"—William E. Stuart. An excellent production and delivered in an eloquent manner.

Essay—"Sunshine and Shade"—Mary H. Crawford. A young lady of superior mind.

Recitation—"Maud Muller"—Sue Johns. One of the finest recitations we have ever listened to. Her voice and manner were faultless and beautiful.

Original Oration—"Man's Immortality"—G. W. McVay. An exceedingly fine oration and delivered in excellent style.

Select Oration—"My Grandfather"—Willie Ewing. Funny and related in a funny way. The speaker was small, but the laughter he created was loud and long.

Recitation—"The Famine"—Lizzie Hoffman. This is part of Longfellow's "Hiawatha" and was spoken in costume and with good effect. The lady's position on the stage was easy and graceful and her voice clear and musical.

Original Oration—"Where is thy Home?"—John McCandless. A well written oration. Mr. McCandless stands among the first of the Oakdale students.

Essay—"Courtship"—Jennie Sapp. This lady might be set down as a "Woman Righter." She took the ground that women ought to be allowed to make proposals of marriage and deprecated the one-sided custom of allowing the men to do all the chosing. The essay was well written and was read in a clear, firm voice, but it isn't probable that the entire audience would subscribe to this sentiments.

Original Oration—"Wholesome Hints"—Sallie M. Perkins. An oration of unusual brilliancy, and one of the freshest and finest we ever listened to. It was spoken in such a clear, ringing voice that all the audience could hear, and all seemed delighted. One gentleman who stood in "the back part of the meetin'," "amid the wreck of matter and the crush of hats," asserted that that lady knew how to "speak out in meetin'," and that her oration was the only one he had been able to hear. A shower of bouquets rewarded Miss Perkins for her really beautiful performance.

Select Oration—"The Sleeping Sentinel"—Silas Gault. This was acted by different students as it was spoken by Mr. Gault. The idea was novel and unique.

The "Scrap Book" compilers were Rebecca E. Tannehill and Mary J. Whitmore. It is quite a difficult matter to prepare anything of this kind that will "take," yet the ladies succeeded admirably and gave the audience a "Book" that overflowed with wit and sentiment. The poem in Miss Tannehill's part of the "Book" entitled "Our Mother is Gone," was a perfect gem.

Poem—"These Three," Alice Ewing. Very fine. It was neatly worded, it was beautiful in ideas and was read in a style that added not a little to its impressiveness.

Two Charades were given and were acted by a number of students in such a way as to win considerable applause. In the second Charade Miss Rebecca E. Tannehill performed admirably the part of an old aunt who had come into possession of an immense amount of money by selling her farm on which "ile" had been struck. Miss Tannehill personated the antient lady in a very life-like and amusing manner.

The valedictory was given by James W. Neely. It was of superior excellence and appropriateness and was spoken with such feeling as to make a visible effect on the teachers and pupils. We are sorry to learn that Mr N. designs entering the medical profession. Such orators are needed in the pulpit and on the rostrum.

At the commencement of the session Mr. C. H. Love, the founder of the Academy, offered a gold watch to the student who should make the greatest improvement in all the studies during the term. At the close, two ladies, Addie Tidball and Lizzie George were found to be equal. Accordingly Mr. Love, with his usual liberality, purchased two gold watches for the winners. James P. Lyle received a gold medal as the second prize. Mrs. Douthett offered two prizes to the students who should make the greatest progress in penmanship. These were won by Misses Ewing and Bockstoce. The presentation speech was made by Prof. A. T. Douthett in his usual felicitous style. Misses Lizzie George and Addie Tidball responded in neat and appropriate speeches.

Toerge's band was in attendance, as was also the Cross Creek band, and of course there was good music and plenty of it.

As an instance of the liberality of Mr. Love, we may state that he not only secured the services of Toerge's band for the occasion, but chartered a passenger coach, and every person from the city who wished to attend the entertainment was allowed a free ride.

The fall term of the institute will commence on Tuesday, September 5th, and the patrons may congratulate themselves that the present very able and excellent teachers, Prof. Cooke and Mrs. Douthett, will remain in their positions.

Yours, &c.,
O. PHIDDLE STYX.

CUTTING AFFRAY AT A PIC-NIC.

The Notorious Celia Burns Attacks a Man With a Knife and Wounds Him Severely—Arrest of the She-Devil.

A pic-nic was in progress near Mount Washington yesterday, and a large number of the females in attendance were of the demi-rep class. Among others of that order who were present on the occasion was one Celia Burns, alias Webster, a woman who has already achieved sufficient notoriety in this community to render her name in police circles as familiar to the ear as household words. As a rule, demi-reps get drunk at pic-nics, and Celia, on this occasion, was not an exception to the rule. About seven o'clock last evening, while the dance was progressing, some boys approached the grounds and did something at which Celia became offended, and she attacked the little fellows with stones and clubs. A young man named George Loup ventured to remonstrate with the drunken creature, upon which she drew a knife and cut Loup across the face three times, inflicting as many severe gashes, two on his cheek and one on his neck. The wounded man, bleeding profusely, escaped from his murderously inclined assailant, and hastening to the office of Justice Barker, in South Pittsburgh, he made an information charging Celia with felonious assault and battery. Officers Havis and Stemler, with a warrant in their possession, took up positions at the foot of the Incline Plane Railway to await the arrival of the pic-nic party on their way back to the city. They had not remained there a great while when Celia and her crowd came down, and the officers secured their prisoner and conveyed her to Justice Barker's office. After a hearing, the magistrate demanded bail in one thousand dollars for the appearance of the accused at a hearing next Thursday. For a short time there was a prospect that the wicked woman would be sent to jail, but her friends were equal to the emergency, for soon they appeared with a man who gave his name as George McDonald, and his residence Sewickley, who swore that he owned real estate valued at several thousand dollars, and stated that he would become responsible for the amount of bail demanded. This settled the difficulty as to the bail, and Celia was set at liberty.

POLICE NOTES.

Brief Mention of Criminalities.

Twenty-one common cases before Mayor Brush yesterday.

Tickets for thirty days' boarding at the Work House were given to James Campbell and Joseph Weismantle yesterday by Mayor Callow. They merited the reward for drunkenness.

Luke Fietsinger endeavored to evade the payment of one cent toll over the Monongahela Suspension bridge. He has since gone to the country—to Claremont, for sixty days.

Mayor Callow issued a warrant for the arrest of one Ed. Pease on a charge of false pretense, preferred by Sarah Johnston, who alleges that the accused obtained boarding at her house to the amount of $21 by falsely stating that his employers owed him several weeks' wages.

W. H. Bassett lodged an information against Martin Myers for assault and battery before Justice Ammon, of East Birmingham. Myers is charged with tearing defendant's clothing and hurling cinders at his head. Warrant issued.

A warrant was issued by Justice Ammon for the arrest of Constantine Smolze and his wife, charged by a Mrs. Eberly with disorderly conduct calculated to produce a breach of the peace.

Richard Poland was before Justice Ammon, charged with surety of the peace, on oath of Elizabeth Lloyd, of Ormsby borough. After a hearing the case was settled.

Compliments of 'Squire Krehan to Mr. F. Funiax, requesting the pleasure of his company at the Justice's office. Funiax struck John Akerman in the face.

Last evening James H. Stone appeared before Mayor Callow and made an information charging William Hazel with surety of the peace. It appears from the statement of the prosecutor that Hazel armed himself with a murderous looking knife, and after giving utterance to the direst threats chased him with it some time. Mr. Stone says that he don't want to be hurt with that knife. Hazel was arrested and held for hearing.

EAST BIRMINGHAM COUNCIL.

Special Meeting Last Night

The Borough Council of East Birmingham held a special meeting last night to consider the subject of free vaccination.

Present were Messrs. Hahn, Haberman, Diehl and Burgess Jones.

The reading of the minutes was dispensed with.

Dr. Arnholt and Mr. J. Eitemiller, a subcommittee appointed by the Sanitary Committee, to address Council on the subject of free vaccination, were present and Dr. Arnholt spoke at some length on the importance of vaccination he said that the committee would leave the whole matter to council. He said that it is no use anymore to try to keep the matter secret, that small pox is raging fearfully, it is spreading, and physicians do not like to treat small pox cases, for it is the most obnoxious disease for physicians to treat, and some of the worst cases that ever came to the speakers notice are now raging on the South Side.

Mr. Haberman desired to know what it would cost the borough per person for vaccination.

Dr. Arnholt said he would not like to dictate to council, what the physicians should receive for each person vaccinated. He said nowever that he thought it was not a matter of dollars and cents, but he thought the physicians would be satisfied with what the council should think proper. The Doctor desired to impress on the mines of the councilmen the necessity of free vaccination, and that immediately too.

Mr. Hahn moved that a committee be appointed to confer with the physicians as to the price per head for vaccinnating. Carried, and Messrs. Hahn and Haberman were appointed.

Dr. Arnholt also suggested that the nuisances in the borough should be reported to the Street Commissioners to have them abated.

The Burgess stated that he would attend to all nuisances personally, that are reported to him.

Dr. Arnholt stated that the Board ordinances against nuisances are very strict, and all that could be desired. For instance, he said that the ordinances not only provide for keeping the slaughter houses clean, but strictly prohibits all slaughtering within the borough. "Now, why," asks the Dr., "is slaughtering allowed within the borough when there is nothing more injurious to health in summer than decayed blood or meat?" He also stated for the benefit of reporters, that the sanitary committee was now organized and ready to do its duty, and that hereafter nuisances would be promptly abated.

THE ROBINSONS.

Johnny's Friends Pay His Fine and he is Released—David Goes Up to Claremont.

Yesterday the friends of Johnny Robinson succeeded in raising the required $100, necessary to save him from another term at Claremont, and he was released. Evidently Johnny is costing his friends more than most persons, unless endowed with an unusual amount of generosity, would be willing to pay. Out of regard for the tax he is to his friend, if for nothing else, we think Johnny should abstain from the flowing bowl for a lengthier period than most folks think he will.

We mentioned yesterday morning, the arrest of Dave Robinson, brother of Johnny, for disorderly conduct on Smithfield street. We also stated that he had made warlike demonstrations at the watch-house which resulted in his having "a head put on him" by the arresting officer. Yesterday morning he had a hearing before the Mayor at which he was sentenced to pay a hundred dollars fine, and in default was sentenced for four months to the Work House. We do not hear of any prominent citizens trying to raise his fine.

Amusements.

TRIMBLE'S VARIETIES.—Since Mr. John Trimble opened his summer season at his Penn Street Theatre he has managed to keep upon its boards some of the best people in the variety business to be found in this country. He has provided his patrons with novelty after novelty, and has fully deserved the very liberal support which the public has bestowed upon him. During the summer weather no style of entertainment is so acceptable as that which Mr. Trimble provides, and the thorough ventilation of his house renders it possible to enjoy the performances even on the hottest nights. This week the company is a large one, the bill a long one, and the entertainment enjoyable. To attempt to speak of the particular merits of the people engaged is unnecessary; all, both male and female, are excellent in their respective specialties. We hope Mr. Trimble's well-merited success during the season will induce him to prolong it for another week.

GRADY'S AMERICAN CIRCUS.—This excellent show will exhibit on the Red Lion Lot for three days only, commencing on Monday, July 31st. The company is spoken of as one of the very best traveling, and differs from most traveling circuses in this important particular: They put before the public everything they advertise. Their corps of artists comprises the very best in the profession, and includes among others four excellent clowns, the celebrated Perry family, equestrians, the infant equestrienne (only six years old) and a full corps of acrobats, riders, leapers, tumblers, gymnasts, &c. A grand free baloon ascension will be given before each performance by Prof. Charles Fisher, the celebrated aeronaut. There is no basket attached to the baloon used, but instead a trapeze bar, upon which the Professor will perform while making the ascension. The press speak of this company in the highest terms of commendation wherever they have exhibited, and we doubt not but they will receive the most liberal patronage while here.

Hatch, bookkeeper of Amador Mine, was assasinated by leaguers, but in turn shot McMemony, one of the leaders of the league. The extent of the trouble is unknown, as the operators are not allowed by the mob to communicate freely. Troops will be ordered from different points immediately.

Business Property
AT AUCTION,
ON THE PREMISES,
317 Liberty Street,
On SATURDAY, July 29, 1871,
AT 2 O'CLOCK P. M.

This is certainly one of the most desirable Business Properties that has been offered in a long time. Its convenience to the Union Depot and being immediately opposite the head of Smithfield street, makes it still more desirable, as it can be seen from the extreme lower end of Smithfield street, making it unusually prominent for a business house. There also seems to be no doubt now but the Union Depot will be moved down to the corner of Smithfield and Liberty, and if so it will still increase its value.
